Fearful that Huerta Will Attack Funston at Vera

tervention

WASHINGTON, June 19.—The administration bent every energy today to prevent a collapse of mediation. Following the cabinet meeting it was admitted that the outlook, while not yet hopeless, was far from bright.

Reports that Ambassador Noan, one of the A. B. C. mediators, was here today, could not be verified. Bryan admitted he had "heard" Noan was in Washington yesterday. No one in authority would either admit or deny that he had privately conferred with the president.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—Unless the Huertista commissioners at Niagara Falls recede, mediation is at an end. It is frankly stated here without qualification that the United States has given its last word.

Either Huerta retires in favor of a provisional government dominated by the constitutionalists or the United States will openly aid the rebels. As soon as mediation collapses, the embargo on arms from the north will be again lifted in favor of the rebels. Vera Cruz will continue to be held against Huerta and he will have to purchase any munitions he needs abroad and get them in through some other port.

Bryan Hopeful
Mexican affairs were again to be a subject of discussion at today's regular cabinet meet. Secretary Bryan held that, at the last moment, the Huertista envoys will recede from their position. He based this belief on the knowledge that the A. B. C. mediators have men of their own choosing to suggest and among them some that would be acceptable to Carranza, Villa and the other constitutionalist leaders. He thinks the Huertista representatives will agree to men of the mediators' choice rather than permit Huerta driven from power by constitutionalist guns.

Other members of the cabinet were not so sanguine. They expect Huerta to stay in Mexico City and fight to the last against his foes and fear that, if this does result, complications must arise that will draw the United States into the fighting against its will.

Expect Attack
Every high official in Washington believes Huerta prefers to surrender Mexico City to the Americans. They think the announcement that mediation has collapsed will be the signal for an attack on Funston's men that will make reprisals absolutely necessary. The war department made all of its preparations along this line. Bryan and the president, however, expect the constitutionalists to keep Huerta too busy to commit any overt act against the Americans at Vera Cruz.

Secretary Bryan and President Wilson discussed the Mexican situation for more than an hour today. Bryan then talked with Justice Lamar at Niagara Falls, over the long distance telephone. It was stated Bryan had notified Justice Lamar that the United States has decided to "stand pat" on the position of making no further concessions.

One evidence that the administration fears a total collapse of mediation was the announcement today that if the negotiations are abandoned the president will issue a statement taking the public into his confidence on all he hoped to accomplish and placing the responsibility for the collapse. This statement, it is understood, will also declare against American intervention, unless forced by some overt act, and will indicate a plan to permit the civil war in Mexico to be fought to the end.

Only Faint Hope

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., June 19.—Failure of the mediation plan to insure peace in Mexico was believed almost a certainty today. The American and Mexican delegates are irreconcilably divided on the person of the proposed provisional government. The faint hope yet remaining is that the mediators themselves may be able to pick a Mexican for the presidency agreeable to both factions—and this would involve at least a recession on the part of either the American or Mexican delegates.

MORRIS LOADED FOR BEAR AT SPARTA TONIGHT LEADERS WILL ATTEND

A party including Senator Otto Bosshard, chairman of the Thomas Morris senatorial campaign committee, James Thompson, Frank H. Burgess, Charles H. Crownhart and J. D. Beck, will motor to Sparta this afternoon to be present at the meeting to be held there which the senatorial candidate will address tonight. The lieutenant governor left for Sparta by train at noon. A telephone message from Sparta this morning conveyed the information that the outlook is good for an interesting meeting, to which the assertion that Mr. Morris is "loaded for bear" is expected to contribute zest.

VILLA GOES AHEAD WITH OWN PLANS

Reported to Have Seized Army and Told Carranza to Keep Out

TWO SEPARATE GOVERNMENTS

Constitutionalist President Has Civil Rule and Villa Is Military Dictator

EL PASO, Texas, June 19.—Though still refusing to admit he has broken with General Venustiano Carranza and insisting that Carranza is his "jefe supremo" General Francisco Villa is going ahead with his own plans regardless of Carranza, according to dispatches today from Torreón.

Just how wide is the breach between the two leaders, if a breach really exists, it is impossible to ascertain. Scores of rumors were current. One was that Villa had severed an ultimatum on Carranza, declaring his intention of taking absolute control of the constitutionalist army.

This story is that Villa agreed to support Carranza's claims only so long as Carranza maintained "hands off" policy so far as the army is concerned. This would leave two distinct governments, civil and military, in northern Mexico.

According to reports, Villa resigned Saturday after refusing to go to Zacatecas with 5,000 troops, and serve under General Pancho Natera, when ordered to do so by Carranza, who Carranza could consider the resignation Villa wired again, declaring 14 subordinate leaders had signed an agreement to serve under no other leader but himself. This was followed by seizures of offices in northern Mexico.

All reports received here indicate Villa has won an important point in the controversy.

All of the ammunition brought to Tampico by the Antilla is in Villa's possession. He has enough ammunition to carry him to Mexico City.

MRS. ESCH BACK
Mrs. John J. Esch and daughter returned this morning from Washington, D. C. Congressman Esch will stay until the end of the session.

LA CROSSE DELEGATION IS ORGANIZED FOR F. HIXON
FOR U. S. SENATOR'S SEAT

The La Crosse delegation to the stalwart republican convention next week will attend the meeting completely organized to urge the name of Frank P. Hixon for the United States senatorship.

In interviews upon the subject of accepting the nomination for either governor or senator, Mr. Hixon has not indicated any serious intention of accepting, and W. E. Barber is authority for the statement that the delegation has no assurance that he will do so.

"We think he's the man, and we hope to secure his consent," said Mr. Barber. "If he permits the use of his name there is little doubt that he will secure the endorsement of the convention."

The delegation has arranged for a private sleeper for the trip. Mr. Barber has promises from thirty-two men that they will attend the convention, and expects the number will reach fifty.

INSURGENTS PLAN THEIR CAMPAIGN

FIGHT MAY GET INTO COURTS

Iowa and Illinois Insurgent Delegates Battle Today for Recognition

TOLEDO, Ohio, June 19.—Demanding reduced insurance rates, a new head consul, complete reorganization of the deputy system, abolishment of sinecure offices and rigid economy henceforth, the "insurgents" in the Modern Woodmen of America convention here today formulated their code and prepared to fight for it though it disrupted the order.

Fight For Recognition
While the Iowa and Illinois insurgents were fighting on the floor for recognition as delegates today, the other "insurgent" cohorts distributed hand dodgers outlining the fight to be made. The demands will later be carried to the floor of the convention.

The "insurgents" demand that the annual remuneration of the head office be reduced from $1,000 to $5,000; head clerk from $7,500 to $5,000; head banker from $5,000 to $3,000 and directors from $6,000 to $4,000.

Head Consul Talbot today announced he would recommend a three per cent capita assessment for sanatorium purposes, extension of loans to first class real estate mortgages and the reinstatement of 300,000 members of the order who withdrew on account of the latest insurance rate revision.

Promise Legal Fight
Following the refusal of the delegates, by a vote of 230 1/2 to 150 1/2 to seat the Nebraska "insurgent" delegation at one a. m. today, the Iowa and Illinois "insurgents," numbering 35 and 75 respectively, began their battle for recognition with the call to order today. The Iowa and Illinois "insurgents" declared they would be recognized or disrupt the encampment. C. W. Lyons, of Des Moines, Iowa, leader of the Iowa insurgents, openly asserted that quo warranto proceedings would be begun in the Toledo courts.

"Our charge will be that the head camp officers are responsible for the loss of at least four hundred thousand members and the dissipation of more than $250,000 of the society's funds," said Lyons.

The convention before adjournment early this morning seated the twenty-three administration delegates from Minnesota, with but one dissenting vote.

The Iowa insurgent delegation met defeat on the floor of the convention today when the delegates voted against its being seated.

The contested Illinois delegates of 73 members was fighting out its case this afternoon.

Six hundred men entered the mine this morning and only four hundred have escaped. Black smoke is issuing from the mouth of the mine and it is almost certain the men are doomed.

The offices of the Canadian Pacific railway at Calgary received word at 1:30 that a terrific explosion had killed at least 200 miners in the Hillcrest mines. A special train was made up and rushed from Blairmore. The explosion took place at 9:30 a. m.

Auto Parade Tomorrow
An automobile parade to West Salem, to attend the international sale of Guernsey cattle, is planned by officials of the Board of Trade and the Merchants' association. The cars will start at 12:45, if possible.

Henry N. Boehm, president of the Merchants' association and E. S. Hebbard and C. S. Van Auker, respectively president and secretary of the Board of Trade, are acting for those organizations in promoting the trip. Edward Dittman, Wm. Doerflinger, Frank Sisson and George W. Burton have interested themselves in making the excursion a success.

Guernsey breeders from all over the United States and Canada will be present at the sale, and farmers in the vicinity of West Salem will attend in large numbers.

An auto party including H. Clay Evenson, J. M. Storckson, E. J. Conway and Frank Purges left by auto at noon today to attend the business meeting of the Guernsey Breeders' association this afternoon.

WEST SALEM, Wis., June 19.—(Special.) Guernsey breeders from over the west are assembled in West Salem today for their summer meeting. Tomorrow the Guernsey men of West Salem are to have a sale, and 75 head of registered cattle will be disposed of at auction.

This morning was spent in a tour of the farms near to the city. The party traversed practically the same route as the "Top Notch" farmers did when they were here a few weeks ago. Among the farms visited were those of C. D. Griswold, Ray Lewis, Alfred Stubbs, and H. W. Griswold.

The Guernsey men expressed themselves as being highly pleased with the way West Salem farmers conduct their farms, and some excellent suggestions for the betterment and improvement of their farms were secured.

At noon a picnic lunch was served on the lawn of A. I. Stubbs' farm and a large number partook in the meal.

The first address of the afternoon was given by Charles L. Hill, former president of the American Guernsey Cattle club. He talked on "Wisconsin as a Guernsey state." He was followed by William Caldwell, secretary of the same organization. The last speaker is to be Professor C. P. Norgord, the new superintendent of the Farmer's Institute of the state. He will speak on alfalfa growing.

Police Contemplate Action Against Lee Sing for Selling Liquor With-

Declaring she suspects that Lola Stewart, her sixteen year old daughter, has been abducted, Mrs. Ben Embree, colored, 111 South Second street, today started in motion police machinery which may result in the trial of Hoay Lee, proprietor of the Shanghai chop suey restaurant on South Third street, on a charge of selling liquor without a license.

The case came to the police attention last night when Mrs. Embree, with her husband, searching for her daughter, discovered her in the chop suey restaurant, sitting about a table with five negro waiters from the Burlington road. The table was covered with bottles of beer.

The Embrees started to take the girl away, and a fight started, in which the parents were driven into the street. A long butcher knife was hurled at them, narrowly missing Mrs. Embree, and a beer bottle crashed into fragments alongside the head of Embree as he passed through the door.

Mrs. Embree called the police, and the whole party was taken to the station. They were released with orders to return in the morning. Lola Stewart was sent home with her mother. During the night she disappeared and her mother today declares she is certain that her daughter has been abducted, Mrs. Embree will ask warrants for the five negroes in the party last night.

If she becomes satisfied that her daughter has been abducted, Mrs. Embree will ask warrants for the five negroes in the party last night. In the meantime, the police are planning to start action against Hoay Lee, proprietor of the chop suey house. Hoay has no license to sell liquor. They will lay the facts before District Attorney D. S. Law.

An additional charge of selling liquor to minors may be laid against him, the police say, as a result of the discovery of the Stewart girl in his place last night.

About a year ago Hoay was accused of selling liquor without license, but the case mysteriously was dropped.

CHAUFFEUR SHOTS GIRL

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 19.—"I killed Myrtle—now I am happy," Marvin Beach, chauffeur, wrote an incoherent note to his mother after he had fired two bullets into the body of Miss Myrtle Armstrong, 26, and tried to kill himself but failed.

Beach discovered while riding to a hospital in an automobile that the girl who had rejected him, still lived. He then tried to set his clothing afire. The trouble grew out of a double love affair, which the girl is said to have been carrying on for two years.

Sophie Cameron Before

District Attorney Misled when He Was Told of the Case, His Statement to Court

Sophie Cameron was freed by a court for the thirteenth time this morning. The woman, who a few years ago was a regular patron of the courts, was arrested on a charge of poisoning Martin Nowak's dog.

"The evidence is very suspicious," said Judge Brindley, "but there is not enough to convict. It will be necessary to discharge the defendant."

Neighborhood Wrangle
Rabbits, cabbages and a dog—as well as a neighborhood wrangle—entered into the amusing case this morning, heard in the county court. Nowak, who lives at 2105 Pine street, had a dog and also some cabbages. Mrs. Cameron, who lives next door, had some rabbits. As a matter of fact she still has the rabbits.

One morning Nowak awoke at his customary hour—4:30 o'clock in the morning—and went out in the yard to find his dog chewing a rabbit. On the hind quarters of the rabbit was something that looked like poison to Nowak.

Find Strychnine
At 7:30 the dog died. A veterinary was called and later the rabbit examined. Unmistakable traces of strychnine were found.

As the dog owned by Nowak had been chasing Mrs. Cameron's rabbits from the cabbage patch Nowak immediately thought that Mrs. Cameron was responsible for the death of the dog.

Several witnesses were called, but the state was unable to prove anything.

District Attorney Law said that he had been misled in the case. "I was told that there was considerably more evidence than has been produced," he said. "I do not believe in bringing a case before the circuit court unless there is some chance of a conviction. We have presented all the evidence obtainable. I move that the defendant be dismissed."

"Mr. Nowak had no reason at all for bringing this suit," declared Judge Brindley. "The defendant is discharged."

What is the cost of living in La Crosse for a woman?
At what age should a girl be entitled to earn her own living?

Should a state minimum wage vary in different localities? These are the questions on which the Wisconsin Industrial commission is seeking light in an effort to set a just and equitable minimum wage.

That the minimum wage in La Crosse for a woman should be $6 a week, with a smaller wage during an apprenticeship period, and that the age when a woman is entitled to earn her own living is 18, was the sense of the testimony of most female labor employers, appearing before members of the Wisconsin Industrial commission, in session at the city hall this afternoon.

Chairman C. H. Crownhart and Commissioner J. D. Beck of the commission arrived in La Crosse this morning and the hearings on the minimum wage scale were started at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

No witnesses were subpoenaed and the testimony by employers and employees this afternoon was purely voluntary.

Had Investigators Here
The commission announced, however, that their findings will not be deduced solely on the voluntary testimony of employers but that they have masses of other data which has been secretly secured by investigators in the employ of the commission.

"The cost of living in La Crosse is one of the most important things to be determined by the commission," said Chairman Crownhart, prior to the hearing. "It is principally (Continued on page 6.)"

Daddy's Bedtime

The Conversation
Story—Of the Little Garden Flowers.

VELYN had been able to find a number of flowers in the garden with which to decorate the house. Daddy noticed them at once and spoke about them.

"The flowers were talking the other day," commenced daddy. "It was early in the morning, and they had just awakened for the day. The dew had given them a most refreshing bath, and they were enjoying the warm sunshine.

"You know I am feeling my best these days," said the red peony. "I am feeling pretty fit myself," replied Mrs. White Peony.

"You know I think it is very sad for you to be talking about how happy you are when I am dying of a broken heart," said the bleeding heart.

"Oh, little bleeding heart," said the Johnny-jump-ups, who were listening, "you must remember that you are very beautiful."

"Yes," answered the bleeding heart; "what you say is, I have no doubt, very true, and it is also very comforting, but it would be so nice to stand up straight instead of always having to droop. I would like to be very tall, too, something like the tiger lily."

"At this the tiger lily looked very proud, but the other flowers didn't say much, as they didn't think the tiger lily was especially beautiful."

"Well," said the biggest iris of the family, "for my part I am very well satisfied with myself and my family. We live for a very short time, but then we are alive in all the most glorious colors we can think of."

"I envy you," said the little bleeding heart.

"Oh, bleeding heart," chimed in the early June rose, "you mustn't talk the way you do! You are very lovely, and everybody loves you."

"Do you really think they do?" said the bleeding heart, looking brighter and happier.

"Certainly," answered the early June rose. "It was only the other day that I heard some one say that they wished more people had bleeding hearts in their gardens, for they were such lovely old fashioned flowers."

"Now, the bleeding heart really seemed to be quite contented once more, and the rest of the flowers went on talking of the different colors they thought their brothers and sisters might be."

"But quiet though they had been all the time the other flowers had been talking, the deep blue forget-me-nots broke in and said:

"We are very small, but we are loyal and will always come up in this garden, for we were the favorite flowers of the loveliest child that ever lived who was once brought up in this garden."

THE TRIBUNE'S Daily Short Story

Glory Ann's Proposal

By IZOLA FORRESTER

(Copyright, 1914, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"Well, I'd just as soon tell him as not what I think of him," said Glory Ann, settling her chin into good decisive lines. "It isn't that I don't like him, Aunt Sheba, because I do; but he needs somebody to jostle him into knowing his own mind."

"Land, Glory, I do believe you're in earnest," laughed old Mrs. Wyman. "I wouldn't do anything to spoil my own chances if I was in your place. Davy may be slow, but he's the owner of the Three Wishes, and he'll have the south farm when the old folks dies."

"I think that's what he's waiting for," flashed back Glory Ann hotly. "Waiting for somebody to die before he's got courage enough to get married."

"Well, child, you wouldn't like to go up there and live with his folks, would you?" protested the old lady mildly. "And he's away more than half the time in the sailing season. What would you do?"

"Go with him," said Glory Ann. "I'd love to. I've never been off the island excepting to run over to Watch Hill in the summer time, and up to Providence once. And here he goes all over, up and down the coast clear to Boston and New York, and expects me to stay here contented. Then when he does get into port, what happens, Aunt Sheba? He comes up here every night and sits over in that chair staring at me, without gumption enough to say boo at the cat."

"Be patient, Glory dear. Men folks are queer and we lose patience with them, but they're awfully nice companions all the same along the life journey."

But Glory had slammed the screen door and was half way down the winding path that led over the wind swept downs to the shore road. Davy's boat would be in at the end of the week, and she had an idea. It was just as she had said. He took it all for granted. She knew he loved her, but the creeping years were beginning to get on her nerves. All the way down to the village she thought out her plan of action. At the little white postoffice was Dorcas Sheldon, her chum, and the two sat out on the steps that faced the ocean half of the morning plotting against Davy's single blessedness.

Saturday the Three Wishes nosed her way into the half circle at Old Harbor and cast anchor. Davy stepped on the rickety wharfs with a sort of subdued thrill. Every time he saw Block Island shaping itself out of the early morning haze now he wondered whether he would have the courage to tell Glory Ann all that was on his mind.

Health Recovered By Simple Remedy

MRS. W. A. JOHNSON

"I was troubled for years with liver trouble and biliousness and could find only temporary relief in the different remedies tried until I used your Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Remedy. I am very pleased to state that it cured me completely and I have not felt so well in years."

—Mrs. W. A. Johnson, Sycamore Springs, Santa Monica, Cal.

A lazy liver makes life a burden, as thousands of suffering men and women know. There is no energy for business or pleasure. Headache, sleeplessness, yellow skin, and coated tongue indicate that the liver is not doing the work properly and the bile is not being carried off. Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Remedy is an absolutely safe remedy for all inflammatory and other diseases of the liver and kidneys. It corrects the functional trouble by increasing the flow of bile into the bowels to a healthy standard and keeps it so. It aids in removing the waste material that obstructs the circulation of the liver and kidneys, and by its tonic and purifying properties brings to a condition of perfect harmony all the organs of the body. Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Remedy has been tried and tested for 37 years and never found wanting, and is bound to do you good. Sold by all druggists in 50c and $1.00 sizes. A free sample and booklet if you write Warner's Safe Remedies Co., Dept. 1122, Rochester, N. Y.

There had been so many obstacles in the way, but he knew Glory Ann understood. He only had his boat and the future inheritance of the old farm towards Mohegan Heights, not much to offer a girl.

But today with the June morning seeping through his whole being, he strode up the shore road with almost a conqueror's air. This time he would ask her.

Glory Ann was nowhere in sight when he turned up the path to the cottage. Aunt Sheba sat out on the porch shelling early peas and smiling at him.

"How be ye, Davy, lad?" she asked happily. "I don't know where Glory is. I think she went for a walk down along the patrol path toward the South Light."

Davy followed the coast patrol's trail at once. He knew every turn to it, and he found her sitting on the rocks by the big spring, reading a letter. She seemed confused and shy when he called to her, and put her letter away hurriedly. Davy threw himself down on the grass and looked up at her adoringly. After two weeks of sailing she was a welcome picture.

"Hello, Glory Ann!" he said.

Glory flushed. It was no greeting from a lover.

"Did you miss me much, Glory?" She shook her head with a little laugh. "You don't write me any letters to make me remember you," she said.

"Letters?" he repeated. "I didn't know you liked letters, dearie."

Glory only laughed, and evaded his reaching hands. Anyway, it was time for her to help Aunt Sheba get dinner, she told him, and Davy followed her quick light footsteps back over the trail wondering. Glory Ann seemed to have something on her mind.

That afternoon he sat on the post-office steps with most of the available male population, waiting for the mail to come up from the afternoon boat. And he saw Glory arrive too, go straight up to the window, and ask Dorcas for mail. And she came out, shy and rosy, reading a lengthy letter. Davy waited for her to encourage him to join her, but she only nodded and went on reading, so he waited until the crowd had dispersed before he ventured in to ask Dorcas how matters stood.

"Oh, Glory gets a letter every day now," said the little postmistress. "No, I don't know where they come from. Better ask her, hadn't you, Dave?"

Davy strolled uneasily down to the wharf and spent the afternoon on the Three Wishes. He was more disturbed than he had ever been in his life. He had never dreamed of any other craft finding his private fishing banks, so to speak. Glory Ann was his. She hadn't any call to go around reading letters from some one else. That evening when he called, Aunt Sheba said regretfully that Glory had gone to bed with a headache. It was the last straw. She never had an ache or a pain, he knew. Glory, who could walk around the island and back, and never mind it, gone down to bed with a headache. He went down to the bluffs above the shore and sat there alone in the dark thinking. And slowly out of the maze there grew the first big determination of his man nature to get the girl he loved and make her his before any other man got ahead of him.

The next day was Sunday. Davy went to church and walked home with Glory, even winning her consent to walk with him that afternoon. And they went as always up to the bleak little burial ground on the side of the hill overlooking the harbor.

Glory had always loved it up there. She would go around softly, as if she were in a dim church, and trace out with her fingertip the old inscriptions of the gravestones. But today she seemed oddly preoccupied until they sat down under the pines together at last. Then Davy blurted the whole thing out.

"Glory Ann, how can you think of anybody but me? I thought we'd understood each other for years. You know there isn't anybody else in the whole world, dearie, for me. Why, when I'm out yonder, holding the wheel nights, who do you suppose I think of when I look up at the sky? Don't I bless those old stars and moon just because I know they're shining down on you, too, here on the island? Glory, who are you getting those letters from?"

Glory smiled. He was getting along, but he hadn't said the right thing yet. So she smiled and shook her head.

"Don't suppose it's any of my business, but I am, Glory. I say it is. When a man's loved the same girl all his life hasn't he got something to say if all at once she starts being interested in somebody else?"

"You haven't any claim on me, Davy."

Davy stared hard at the slender spars of the shipping fleet at anchor below them. She was right. They were not engaged. All at once he realized that his ship had no anchor, no home harbor. She could sail wherever she pleased.

"Glory, would you be willing to marry me before we sail again? You could go along down to New York with us if you liked."

Glory Ann lifted a merry, willful face to his, all smiles and teasing mirth.

"Land alive, Davy, you did say it, didn't you?" she said. "Why, I guess I could get ready in time to sail."

Davy heard one long sigh of relief as he stood up and looked at her, but there was one thing more on his mind.

"What you going to say to the other fellow?"

And Glory laughed, slipping her hand in his.

"There isn't any one else, Davy. I

Washing Won't Rid Head of Dandruff

Dissolve It, That's Best Way

The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

Do this tonight, and by morning most if not all of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy, every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop at once, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

If you want to preserve your hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, quickly. It not only starves the hair and makes it fall out, but it makes it stringy, straggly, dull, dry, brittle and lifeless, and everyone notices it. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and never fails to do the work.

MAIMING CHILDREN IS NOT PATRIOTISM

If England should reach out a murderous arm to this country and kill 215 children in one week, injuring 5,992, some of them for life, blind or lacking fingers, Americans would rise as one and go to war and there'd be no watchful waiting about it either.

If a school house should collapse, killing 215 children and injuring 5,992 others, a frenzied city would demand vengeance upon the guilty inspectors who allowed the guilty builders to commit this murder.

But when through our own silly feeble-mindedness we allow 215 children to be killed and 5,992 to be injured, many for life, out of an idiotic sense that in some way it honors the brave men who wrote and signed and proclaimed and defended the Declaration of Independence which set us free from the yoke of England, we just—don't do anything about it.

That is, we don't rise in wrath and demand vengeance. The bereaved parents call it accident and the "Hand of God." The little graves are dug and the doctors are very busy and that's all.

But finally, in 1909, when the figures of killed and wounded had been steadily climbing year by year until they reached that appalling 215 and 5,992, some forces in our country did at last take action. The Ladies' Home Journal which had long been hammering for constructive action had the pleasure of seeing other periodicals and papers, and especially women's clubs, get after the work of prevention. City after city fell into line with ordinance forbidding the sale and use of fireworks.

Last year, the list of casualties of the first week in July dropped to 32 killed and 1,131 injured.

That is to say, by substituting picnics, parades, pageants and other really interesting and pleasant ways of celebrating the day for the doubtful pleasure of playing with dangerous explosives, over 200 children were kept alive and safe, over 4,000 who would have been maimed and crippled, had the increase kept up, are today well and happy.

And where was there any loss to offset that great gain?
What there was is not perceptible to the naked eye. How about the fireworks manufacturers, you ask?
Perhaps some of them did lose and change their business. But in most of the communities progressive enough to forbid the sale of firecrackers, toy cannons and other deadly noisemakers, the city, or neighborhood associations armed with permits demanding proper safeguards, engaged the fireworks people themselves to give evening displays of great beauty.

There is a legitimate field for that kind of fireworks, handled by experts who are careful, producing a really artistic pleasure which may be enjoyed by thousands of people. In more than one town the bands play in the parks in the evening of Independence Day, the fireworks are set off by grown men who know how to handle them, in a large, safely roped off enclosure, and the lawns and hillsides are thronged with happy, good-natured crowds. Nobody's little son or daughter or nephew or niece or cousin or neighbor's little child has been killed or had an arm blown off or eye put out, so everybody can eat popcorn and sing patriotic songs and say "Oh!" and "Ah!" without any pall hanging over the celebration.

This decrease in the "patriotic" mortality rate from 215 to 32 is splendid. But why the 32? It's fine that the rate of injured has dropped 80 per cent. But why the 1131 injuries? Why any at all?

Only a few children of the fireworks age miss anything by the deprivation. Those growing up without the habit are perfectly happy.

Encouragement of the safe and same Fourth movement is one of the things which can be well carried on by women—and in fact, the biggest thing which the "new woman" stands for all the time is the conservation of the nation's children.

KENOSHA A FAST TOWN

KENOSHA, Wis., June 19.—Kenosha business men are not followers of the old adage, "If business interferes with your golf game, cut out the business." But many are in favor of regulation of business so that the golf game will not be interfered with. To this end the manufacturers of the city are talking of adopting eastern time for the operation of all the plants in Kenosha.
This will mean that all Kenosha will turn the clock forward an hour.

BEGGAR HAS $12,000

NEW YORK, June 19.—A one-legged beggar on Fifth avenue, Joseph Vono, was found by a probation officer to be the occupant of a finely furnished apartment at 42 West End avenue, and the possessor of three bank books showing $12,- fifteen days in the workhouse.

Tribulations to an Editor

The trials and tribulations of a country editor are manifold, but are borne with fortitude because the country editor has a sense of humor.
The recompenses of his life are many, however, and one of these came to one of them in the shape of the following letter from an old subscriber.

I've stopped my paper, yes, I have,
I didn't like to do it.
But the editor he got too smart,
And I'll allow he'll rue it.
I am a man who pays his debts,
And will not be insulted;
So when the editor gets smart,
I want to be consulted.
I took the paper 'leven years
And helped him all I could sir.
But when it came to dunning me
I didn't think he would, sir.
But that he did and you can bet
I made me hot as thunder.
Says I, "I'll stop that sheet, I will I hunted up the editor
And for his cunning paper,
I paid him 'leven years and quit.
Yes, sir! I stopped the paper.

Erin Go Higher

Chauncey Olcott, the Irish actor who was to play at the Tabor Grand Theatre in Denver, and in view of the popularity of the coming star, the management advanced the price of parquet seats from a dollar to a dollar and a half.

The first man in line when the box office opened for the advance sale was an elderly Hibernian. He laid down two silver dollars on the shelf.
"Give me a couple good seats for Chauncey," he said.

"One dollar more, please," said the box office man.
"Why so?" demanded the patron suspiciously. "I never paid more'n a dollar to see Chauncey before."
"Yes, I know," said the ticket man, "but Dave Warfield, who is a Hebrew actor, is playing up the street next week at two dollars. We thought if a Jewish comedian was worth two dollars, an Irish comedian ought to be worth a dollar and a half."

"Is that so?" snorted the customer. He snatched his silver back and slammed a wrinkled five dollar bill down instead.
"I want two tickets," he roared,
"and don't give me no change back out of that five spot, neither, young man. If a Jew is worth two dollars Chauncey is worth two and a half, and not a cent less."

Open or Closed

Just as a large Irish stevedore walked into a waterfront saloon in San Francisco trouble broke out in the back room. There were sounds of oaths, of blows, of chairs being overturned and of crockery smaching.

Quick Relief When Utterly Worn Out

Getting the Blood in Order Is Required By Most People.

If you think you have gone to smash and fit only for the discard, try S. S. S. for the blood. It will surprise you to know what can be done for health once the blood is released of the excess of body wastes that keep it from exercising its full measure of bodily repair.

If you feel played out, go to any drug store and ask for a bottle of S. S. S. Here is a remedy that gets at work in a twinkling; it just naturally rushes right into your blood, scatters germs right and left, up and down and sideways.

You feel better at once, not from a stimulant, but from the action of drugs, but from the rational effect of a natural medicine.

The ingredients in S. S. S. serve the active purpose of so stimulating the cellular issues of the body that they pick out from the blood their own essential nutrient and thus repair work begins at once. The relief is general all over the system.

Do not neglect to get a bottle of S. S. S. today. It will make you feel better in just a few minutes. It is prepared only in the laboratory of The Swift Specific Co., 530 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga. Send for free book telling of the many strange conditions that afflict the human family by reason of impoverished blood.

Cream Cake

Inquiries among a large number of women using "The Cook's Book" showed this to be their favorite cake recipe. It is easy to make, certain to turn out well if K C Baking Powder is used, and may be put together with almost any filling or icing.

He moistened the palms of his hands after the approved stevedore's fashion, hitched up his sleeves and started for the rear. Then, remembering the proprieties, he halted.
"Mister Barker," he inquired softly, "tell me is that a private fight or kin anybody take a hand?"

No Such Name

Paul Armstrong tells of a friend of his, an exceedingly deaf man, who was being introduced to a young woman. The young woman was pretty, but she had a strange name. Her name was Dinglefugle.

"Mr. Smith," said the mutual acquaintance, "this is Miss Dinglefugle." The deaf man cupped his hand behind his ear.

"Please pardon me," he said, "but I am hard of hearing. What did you say the name was?"

"Miss Dinglefugle," murmured the afflicted one with a strange and puzzled look in his eye, "but I haven't caught it yet."

The other raised his voice to a shout.

"Miss Dinglefugle," he blared.
Resignedly hopelessly the deaf man shook his head.

"It's no use," he said; "sounds like Dinglefugle to me."

You've Got to Take a Chance

If you go across the ocean, your ship is likely to sink.

True enough, but if you travel on land, your train is apt to be wrecked.

If you just jimmy around the home town your automobile may blow up or throw a tire and precipitate you quickly into the ravine on your elbow and shoulder blades.

If you go buggy riding, your horse is apt to shy at a piece of paper in the road and kick you into the middle of the following week.

If you go out walking an automobile may scramble you up or a foot-pad tap you suddenly yet firmly on the dome of thought.

But if you sit still at home a hundred things are liable to happen to you. The gas stove is likely to blow up, you may have a fit, somebody may shoot through your windows by accident, the house may catch fire, some weary wayfarer may come along and sell you a lot of Turkish rugs, lightning may strike the house and then there are the possibilities of an earthquake.

At the very best, you have got to take a chance whether you want to or not.

The Great New Historical Romance

John
O' Jamestown

By VAUGHN KESTER

Copyright, The Robbe-Merrill Company

I heard the watch at the gate changed, by which I knew that it was nine of the clock. I fell to wondering what was doing that very hour at the other side of the world, which brought me quick to thoughts of my mother and father and Mary. I prayed to God that my letters might have come safely into their hands by this time. I wondered if Betty and Tom Preston had made a match of it.
Presently I was conscious that there was absolute silence about me, save only for the night sounds and the splash of the tide. Stepping from the hut I saw that Wingfield's cabin stood in darkness. I thought that lewd company was keeping wondrous early hours forthwith, and walked toward the cabin, having in mind to know if they had really dispersed.
I found the door closed, which was singular enough on such a night.
Now the back of President Winfield's cabin rested close against the palisades, and was toward the river, and as I stood speculating on what that shut door meant, for I was sure no one had come from the cabin since the carousal ended, I thought I heard sound of voices in the direction of the river. Listening intently for a moment, all doubt was dispelled on this point; the distant murmur of voices reached my ears past all peradventure.

I crossed to the great gate, where I found George Cassen on duty. I gave him good-evening and asked if any had gone forth; he told me no, and after a word or two with him I walked back to Wingfield's quarters in a mighty state of mystification.

Our fort was four square. The great gate, roughly speaking, looked toward the north and the causeway we used in passing over to the mainland; we had builded away from the gate on either hand, so that the major number of our tents and huts were at the east and west sides of the fort; on the south side there was only Marshall's hut, the president's quarters, the storehouse, and a space where we purposed, when our strength should be somewhat recruited, to build a church for good Mr.
Hunt.

I went about the three sides of Wingfield's cabin, which was rather larger than any other we had yet built, and between it and the storehouse I chanced to observe where two of the palisades had been lifted from the ground, leaving a narrow gap in the wall through which a man of my bulk even might squeeze without much difficulty. Mightily interested now, I pushed my way through the opening and went toward the river, coming out upon the shore a little below the spot where the pinnace lay moored to the trees. Glancing in this direction, I espied a light shining from her cabin windows.

It flashed upon me all in an instant what was afoot! Wingfield purposed to steal the pinnace and return to England. In one sense we would be well rid of him and his friends at any price, but I doubted not that to make the attempt practical they must rob the general store, taking even the little that remained of our corn to help them out. Truly this was a notable villainy that I had unearthed; yet it was well-nigh beyond belief when I stopped to soberly think of it, that Englishmen would abandon and even rob the sick and dying of their only hope of life. I could feel my blood boil with deep hatred for these heartless wretches who were so much worse than the very savages.

I stole noiselessly along the shore toward the pinnace, and went as close as I felt it safe to venture, for I did not know but they had posted a watch on deck. There was much talk going forward in the cabin, almost every word of which was plain to me. The first I heard was this:
"How stands the tide now, Archer?"

"It's at the full. Man, if we but had a breath of wind to help us away from these cursed shores!"

"What do you think, gentlemen?"

"It was Wingfield again. 'Shall we make the attempt tonight?'"

"Perforce we must," said another voice I recognized as Kendall's. "We cannot wait for them to discover that the stores are missing; that will breed a pretty riot."

"When the tide turns, we will slip our moorings, taking the barge and shallow with us so they cannot row-down, no matter what tricks the guns of the fort."

"No fear of that!" cried Archer.
"Then, gentlemen, we will drink a last farewell to Virginia.

I waited to hear no more, but treading soft and with my heart hot for those villains, turned back toward the fort. As I neared the gap they had made by overthrowing the palisades, I mended my pace to a run, which quickly brought me into John Smith's presence, for I burst in upon him without so much as a by-your-leave, to find him in undress but busy writing in his journal by the light of a single sputtering candle.

"What now, Farraday?" said he.

The words came out of me in a fashion to astonish myself even, for my indignation gave me a readiness of speech I had not known I was gifted with; but before I had reached a conclusion John Smith had put aside his peaceful labours and was getting into his clothes. Then as I finished, he said with one of his rare oaths:

"There will be no peace for us until I make an end of Wingfield. I am mightily minded to let those runagate knaves trust themselves to the tide and then with our great guns sink them—but no, we need each weevil-eaten grain of corn they have stolen from us. Do you, Farraday, set together swiftly what force you can, and we will shortly board the pinnace. Be silent, man, but be expeditions, since there is no time to lose."

I ran from the cabin, and presently had about me some half dozen of our soldiers who were best able to keep their legs. Then we were joined by Smith, who had not waited to fully dress himself.

"Now lead the way, Farraday," said he, after glancing over the men to determine their number and quality.

I conducted them through the gap in the palisades, with Smith close at my heels, and the rest following in single file, and the first thing those plotter-knives knew was when we dashed aboard the pinnace and Smith, very much in hand, appeared in their very midst.

His sudden advent bred consternation, yet they sprang nimbly enough to their feet, drawing their swords

MEDIATION COST IS $25 PER DIEM

Living Expenses of the 56 at Niagara Falls for Treating Are $1,400

IS SMALLEST PART OF EXPENSE

Clerk Hire and Telegraph Tolls Add Enormously to the Entire Cost

BY FRED S. FERGUSON

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., June 19.—As mediation now swings on through conversation after conversation and conference after conference, this neck of the woods is a dull and uninteresting spot for Mr. Ordinary Man. Far back through the ages the cry of all revolutionists has been to restore the lands to the poor peons of Mexico, but if a poor man showed up around the Clifton hotel where they are now endeavoring to settle his affairs he would probably not only lose his lands but his shirt.

It is pay, pay, pay and the mediators and delegates to the mediation conferences are paying at a lively rate. When it is all put down in cold figures the cost of the conferences here will be astounding. After the first flurry when special correspondents and near-diplomats from every direction flocked into Niagara Falls, the colony has now simmered down until there are approximately 56, including the mediators and their suites, the Americans, Mexicans, and newspaper correspondents. A conservative estimate of the average cost of "mediating" to each of these 56 is $25 a day in hotel bills, meals and automobile hire. This makes the average daily ordinary "living expenses" of the colony $1400 per day. Figuring on this basis mediation in the Mexican trouble has cost $39,200. But war for the same length of time would have cost far more, not to mention casualties.

This does not, of course include the salaries of clerks and the various secretaries of the three mediators, the American and Mexican delegations. There is also the inestimable amount spent in telegraph tolls by newspapers: the cost of transmitting long code messages between the Prospect house and Washington; similar messages received and sent from Mexico City and the communication the mediators have with their own countries. But mediating is a great little sport with no time for thought as to expenses. The following is the general scheme of mediation as followed at Niagara Falls:

At eleven o'clock each morning da Gama, of Brazil, Naon, of Argentina, and Suarez of Chili, go to their conference room. There is no set schedule for the holding of conversations with the Mexican or American delegates. Sometimes an engagement may be made in advance but not often. After gathering in the conference room and diplomatically discussing the carpet on the floor or the weather, the Mexicans or Americans may be invited to appear or ask that they may be heard. If it is the Americans who are to be heard, the State Department chauffeur is aroused from the rear seat of his machine and he rolls up in front of the Prospect House. Justice Lamar, Frederick W. Lehman and their secretary, H. Percival Dodge, followed by Robert F. Rose, ponderous representative of the State Department, enter.

The car progresses from the Prospect House to the Bridge where the envoys, Dodge, Rose and the chauffeur pay ten cents each to pass on to Canada. The car circles the Clifton House. Across the river the Falls are roaring and glistening in the sunlight. Stopping at the door, the mediation delegation alights, diplomatically and with great dignity. Judge Lehman, however, can't suppress a laugh and so he laughs. Newspapermen greet the delegates, and learn nothing. They enter the elevator, ascend to the conference room, the doors are closed and mediation is on.

The secret service guard at the Clifton has been reduced by two men, but whenever a conversation is in progress a pair of the King's sleuths pace back and forth before the door. They march solemnly and with dignity befitting the occasion. After a time the American delegates come down the stairs. Justice Lamar may or may not have something to say. He is extremely careful of every word he uses. He talks slowly and with extreme caution. When he is through the job of the newspaper men is to decide what he meant.

Justice Lamar compares the work of the correspondents here to fishing in a bathtub. When there are no developments, he will say:

"Now, there really are no fish in this tub. There is nothing to say." At other times he will declare: "There are fish in the tub this time alright, but I can't tell you what they are." Interviewed alone the justice is very pleasant. It seems actually to pain him sometimes that he cannot answer the questions asked him.

When the Mexicans confer with the mediators they do not cause as much fuss about the hotel as the Americans. Having their rooms on the same floor as the conference they slip in or out without attracting attention.

NURSING AGENCIES ORGANIZE

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., June 19.

Fifteen nursing agencies, affiliated with the State Charities Aid Association were represented here today when plans were mapped out for affecting a permanent organization joining all public nursing agencies of Westchester county. It is planned to make the conference held to day an annual event.

A woman seldom nags her husband unless he is that kind of a husband.

Headache and Dizziness

Headache is never a disease. It is always a symptom. Applications, powders and tablets that drug the headache into quietude are treating the symptoms, not the disease, always a useless proceeding and often harmful.

When headache is associated with some dizziness it is usually the result of nervous exhaustion and will continue as long as the person who is overworked allows the debility to continue. It rapidly disappears when rest and the proper tonic is taken.

Nervous exhaustion, the cause of such headaches and dizziness, results from a strain on the nerves, results which the rebuilding work of the blood is unable to keep pace. The best tonic for such a condition is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills build up the blood and strengthen the nerves. With this treatment, unless the overwork, worry, or whatever has caused the nervous breakdown, is persisted in, the headaches, dizziness, nervousness and irritability that characterize neurasthenia rapidly disappear.

The Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y., will send free on request a helpful little book on the home treatment of nervous disorders. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are obtainable at any drug store.

HIS RISE ALMOST AS RAPID AS HIS FALL

C. B. Munday.

C. B. Munday, the millionaire associated in the banking business with former Senator William Lorimer, some of whose banks in Chicago and other Illinois towns were closed last week, began as a messenger boy in Litchfield, Ill., where he was born.
He became a telegraph operator.
Working at the key he heard the gossip of the wires and the chattering of big business. He became interested in the grain market and began to buy grain in a small way.
That was the beginning of his wonderful career. Within ten years he became the head of some twenty business institutions and built up a fortune.

AMERICAN LADY "SASSED" HUERTA

Close Friend of Madero Braved Death to Decorate His Tomb

WALKED PAST MANY SOLDIERS

Daring Culminated in Verbal Attack on Dictator in Presence of His Son

BY WILLIAM G. SHEPHERD
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
VERA CRUZ, Mexico, June 19.—
(By Mail to New York)—Mrs. Mary Reyes, is back again under the American flag after having given a certain Mexican named Huerta the sassing of his life. With her she brings four pretty daughters, about whom the young lieutenants of the army and navy are flocking like birds.
But to get along into the story:

Four Pretty Girls
Mrs. Reyes went to Mexico 25 years ago and is the American wife of a Mexican who was once wealthy. Her four daughters have delightful little hips, calculated to drive a white-suited young navyman half mad. The girls learned sten-ography after the family fortunes waned and in good American style they jumped in after their father's death and made for themselves and their mother a home that was one of the brightest and most interesting in Mexico City. When President Madero was assassinated Mrs.
Reyes agreed with President Wilson that Huerta, the assassin, ought not to be recognized. It was an easy matter for resident Wilson not to recognize Huerta but for Mrs. Reyes it was an affair of great difficulty, owing to the fact that the Reyes and Huerta families were in the same social set in the capital. Mrs.
Reyes began to speak her mind wherever she went. The Carranzas, who were working secretly in the city, at the risk of their lives, sought her out and told her to be careful.

Saved Many Lives
"I'm going to talk and think as I please," said Mrs. Reyes, in American style. The Carranzas in the capital began to depend more and more on the American woman and her daughters for aid in accomplishing secret and difficult tasks. For instance, it's Mrs. Reyes' own secret how she did it, but it is known that 14 deputies who had been marked for death by Huerta were spirited away from her home at various times, to safety. And everytime a deputy went to safety, the wardrobe of one of the girls was minus a gown or a street dress. If you could just get the Reyes family to tell the details of some of these things you'd have a play or a book, that would thrill the world. Maybe they'll tell, sometime, they say—but the Carranzas aren't in power yet. The crisis for the Reyes family came on February 22, not because that it was Washington's birthday, but because it is the anniversary of the assassination of Francisco Madero, who was almost an idol with the Reyes girls and their mother. On that Sunday afternoon, Mrs. Reyes, taking her liberty and it might have been her life in her hands, went to the French cemetery, where Madero lies buried and carrying great bouquet of roses, she stalked her way through the lines of Mexican soldiers and rurales to the door of the Madero family tomb and placed the roses there.
Carmen, her daughter, who was standing beside her suddenly felt the touch of a hand on her shoulder.
The girl turned and found herself facing George Huerta, the son of Madero's assassin.

Young Huerta Insolent
"What are you doing here?" he asked insolently. He's a loafing young blood of the capital and perhaps some of his father's cognac made him particularly overbearing in his demeanor. "Are you a relative of the Madero's?" he continued.
"What are you crying around here for?" I was in the cemetery myself, that Sunday, and I know what a single crowd of soldiers and secret service men it was that surrounded Madero's grave. It would have taken a brave man to stand at that grave and speak his mind, and he probably would have paid for his words with his life. "We're here to mourn for the good man your father murdered."

The words came like so many shots; spoken right into the face of the assassin's son; delivered in the presence of grim soldiers; heard by scores of bystanders who were secretly mourning; thrilling me, as they did every other bystander, until it hurt us not to be able to cheer. Mrs.
Reyes told George Huerta some more things, too; she told him that he was as bad a man as his drunken father.
She prophesied; she said the day would come when his father who had seized the presidency by murder, would be an outcast. She said she hoped the day wasn't far away, either, and then she wound up by saying "Now go home and tell your father what an American woman, who isn't afraid to talk, thinks about him." She and her daughter turned away, stalked through the lines of soldiers and left the wondering and astonished son of the dictator to think things out.

I'm telling this story of the Reyes family now because it is the first chance I have had to tell it, without endangering the lives or at least the liberty of that brave woman and her daughters.

After the incident, secret service men haunted them and their home; even their servants, they discovered were Huerta spies. And the other day, they had to flee. There was one "white man" in the Huerta government, who called one of the girls to the office and said:

"Your mother and you girls had pally upon this that the wage scale will be based.

"We are also seeking information which will lead to an intelligent determination of the age at which a woman should be reasonably supposed to be capable of making her own livelihood."

"We are not depending solely upon the voluntary testimony of employers and for months we have had investigators at work throughout Wisconsin compiling statistics on the cost of living and other subjects pertinent to the question of a minimum wage."

Costs $3 a Week

That the average cost of living for a girl in La Crosse is $3 per week was the consensus of opinion among the employers gathered before the commission this afternoon.

The La Crosse Manufacturers and Jobbers' club has been conducting an investigation of its own on the subject and some of the members are prepared to appear before the commission with full details as to the cost of room, board and clothing to the average girl.

While the majority of local employers favor a short apprenticeship at a wage below the minimum it is also their opinion that eighteen years is the age at which a girl should be entitled to the scale set by the industrial commission.

No Discretion Till Eighteen

It is argued by some employers that before that age the girls are worth but little to their employer.
Attention is also called to the fact that in Wisconsin the state law credits a woman with no discretion until she is eighteen. That age, it is claimed, is the average of the high school graduate.

While the economic efficiency of some high school girls is little, said one employer today, the average graduate, because of her education, is worth many times more than the grade school product.

High Minimum Not Set

The question of the maximum minimum in the state has not been determined but most employers have already gone on record as favoring a varied scale.

They maintain that while $7 per week may be fair in Milwaukee—and that is the minimum most of the employers there favored—the same figures might be entirely out of proportion in La Crosse, because of the difference in the cost of living here and there.

Another interesting bit of information given the commission this afternoon was that 80 per centum of the girl workers in La Crosse reside at home, thus materially reducing the cost of living to themselves.

That the commission is giving serious consideration to a six months' probation period was indicated by the questions directed at the witnesses before the commission this afternoon.

Joseph Bartel, of the J. Bartel company, was the first witness called this afternoon. Mr. Bartel testified that his store employs thirty-five girls and that each requires a certain amount of training before she becomes proficient. The time necessary to make them of value depends entirely upon the girl, he said.

Mr. Bartel says that he hires girls ranging in age from 17 to 18 years and that it is his opinion that a girl should be able to earn her own living at 18.

He maintained that $7 minimum wage with six months' apprenticeship would mean a constant contest between employers for efficient girls.

Joseph Felber of the E. R. Barron company told the commissioners that to pay all clerks a minimum wage of $7 a week would mean an increase of approximately $1 a week apiece. Some now make as high as $18 a week, he said.

"How would that effect your business," he was asked.

"I don't think it would effect it at all," he answered. "We would simply try for greater efficiency."

He testified that the company employed 44 girls and that all lived at home. He said better results were secured from girls who stayed at home.

RICHMOND SHOW OPENS

LONDON, June 19.—Record entries were obtained for the Richmond Horse show which opened today in the beautiful Old Deer Park, Richmond, by the Duke of Teck, president of the show committee. Despite the counter attraction of Ascot there was a big muster of society leaders, and keen interest was taken in the competitions, for which prize money to the extent of $10,000 as well as several coveted trophies was offered.
There were 32 classes for the equine competitors, and a number of the popular contests. Walter Winans, the ex-American exhibitor as usual had a big string of horses and he introduced some novelties in high-stepping Arabian stallions and Russian sleight and Troika horses. A special competition for hunters was a feature of today's proceedings and for this there were a number of American entries. Tomorrow the chief event will be the Coaching Marathon from Hyde Park to Richmond, the first prize being Lord Locanfields cup.

better get out of the capital as soon arrest her."

And so the plucky little American woman, with her four daughters, left their home one evening, got to the railroad station one evening without being observed and, twenty-four hours later, were under the American flag at Vera Cruz.

TO RISK LIFE TO EXAMINE CRATER

Aged Professor of the U. S.
Geological Survey Will Climb Mount
Lassen

REDDING, Cal., June 19.—Despite efforts of forest rangers to dissuade him, Prof. J. B. Diller of the United States Geological survey, today started for Mount Lassen, the American volcano, to make a personal examination of the crater.

"I intend to clear the top at all hazards," said Diller. "I first visited Lassen in 1883. I am old now and am a poor climber and the trip is more perilous, but I am determined to make comparison with my observations 31 years ago."

Prof. Diller said he had received orders to make the trip and he proposed to do so, regardless of personal peril. He issued a general request to all persons who have photographs of the volcano in eruption to send him copies.

Prof. Diller expects to camp five miles from the crater and spend several days investigating. The volcano was quiet today.

LAWLER'S LEAD MUCH CUT DOWN

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 19.—The latest figures on Tuesday's primary election show the race for the democratic nomination for governor between Daniel W. Lawler and W. S.
Hammond narrowing down to a few votes. Lawler's strong lead in the cities is being overcome by Hammond's strength in the country, and with eight hundred precincts yet to be heard from, the vote stands: Hammond, 19,828; Lawler,

CONVENTION IS A MISTAKE---COWIE

'Old Line' Republican Says Sincere Protest Is Branded as "Reactionary"
by Meeting

EMANUEL PHILLIP IS "HOO-DOO"

His Name Linked with the Gathering Sufficient to Offset Any Good which Might Follow

Almost on the eve of the stalwart convention at Madison, Wis., R. V.
Cowie, Whitehall, former member of the state board of control and prominent among the "old line" republicans, says that the convention is a mistake, and that nothing can be expected to follow it but disaster.

Mr. Cowie, here today, maintains that what is a sincere protest against high taxes and the present administration, has been given the appearance of an attempt by the stalwarts to regain control of the state, and the fact that E. L. Phillip's name has been so prominently mentioned in connection with it has been sufficient to take away any good that might be hoped for.

"There is a real protest in the state," said Mr. Cowie today, "and it is too bad that it had to be crystallized in such a manner that it will be construed by the average as a so-called reactionary gathering. I see no good to come from such a gathering."

DENIES HE AIDED G. O. P. CANDIDATE

WASHINGTON, June 19.—Declaring he had been a consistent democrat for twenty-five years, M. G.
Gill, of St. Louis, pleaded before the house this afternoon for the adoption of the resolution ousting Representative Dyer, republican.

Gill spoke of his ballot on which he is alleged to have scratched democratic nominee and to have voted for Dyer.

"I appeal to Almighty God and to my mother who has long since gone above," shouted Gill, "to look down in my heart and if ever I attempted to help a republican into office, I hope the foot will exhibit itself upon my face now."

Representative Saunders of Virginia, a democrat, supported the resolution of the republicans to give Dyer more time to present evidence.

ROYAL ASCOT CLOSSES.

ASCOT, England, June 19.—
"Royal Ascot" finished today in a blaze of glory with the Wokingham stakes, a 6 furlong sprint, value $5,000; the Hardwick stakes, a mile and a half weight for age race, value $12,500, and the Alexandra Plate, a 2-3-4 mile weight for age race, value $8,000, as the chief events. While silk hats were to be seen in the royal enclosure, etiquette was relaxed for this, the concluding day, and even King George, who with Queen Mary was again present, availed himself of this freedom and wore one of his favorite felt hats and a lounge suit. The royal party drove over from Windsor Castle, but there was no state procession.

man, New York; first vice president,

With a vastly superior varsity crew to any that has represented the Blue in the past decade Yale supporters today looked for their oarsmen to give Harvard the hardest kind of a race over the regular course on the Thames. Fully 25,000 spectators are here today from Boston, Cambridge and New Haven to see the great annual struggle for water su-premaccy between the two big universities.

BOSSY ENTERS STORE

The story of Ursus and the bull was reproduced today with variations, when a bossy cow belonging to Al Miller, 1123 South Third street, rushed into the rear of the Tausche Hardware store when frightened by the shouts and the gesticulations of her drivers in trying to get her out of the alley.
Bossy charged up the aisle of the store to the cashier's booth, where she encountered a small army of clerks, who gently persuaded her that the store was not the proper habitat of a bovine.
Outside of a little excitement, no damage was done.

STARVES HERSELF TO DEATH IN GRIEF AT LOSS OF HER PARENTS

CHICAGO, June 19.—Suicide by starvation was expected to be the coroner's verdict today in the case of Agnes Phillip, 20 year old girl, whose emaciated body was found under a house late yesterday by an eight year old boy.

Her parents died a year ago, relatives said today, and in her grief Agnes had twice attempted to end her life. She disappeared from her home with her sister, on May 25. The police believe she deliberately crawled to the spot where her body was found and denied herself food until starvation and exposure brought death.

HARVARD TODAY BESTS THE BLUE

NEW LONDON, Ct., June 19.— Harvard started for a clean sweep in the annual regatta with Yale here today by winning both morning events. After an easy ten length victory in the second 'Varsity eights, the Crimson won the freshman eights by three lengths.
The time for first two mile events between the second 'varsity crews was:
Harvard, 11 minutes and 34 seconds; Yale, 12:02.
The time for the second event,
the Freshmen eights, was:
Harvard, 11 minutes, 45 seconds;
Yale, 12 minutes, 4 seconds.

The main event of the day then held the only hope for Yale, but a cold drizzle was falling and the spirit of the supporters of the Blue was damp, indeed. The 'varsity eights will start on the four mile grind, weather permitting, at 4:45 this afternoon.

THEODORA BITTNER TELLS OF "Y" CAMP

Former La Crosse Girl
Writes of Riverside
Camp in Mankato
College Paper

DESCRIBES LIFE AT THE CAMP

Tells of Camp Activities During Fortnight Spent in the Out of Doors

Under the caption "Camping on the Mississippi," the current issue of "The Echo," official organ of the Bethany Ladies' college of Mankato, Minn., contains a most interesting article upon the summer camp of the La Crosse Y. W. C. A. at Riverside. The article was written by Miss Theodora Bittner, a member of the Bethany college faculty, formerly a teacher in the German Lutheran Parochial school in this city. Miss Bittner was one of the many girls who enjoyed the opportunity presented by the Y. W. C. A. camp for an ideal outing.

The article, in part, follows: "Fresh air and healthful exercises are essential to good health; and so is relaxation from the daily toil and labor of the mind and of the body. Without fresh air—and a good share of it, too—and daily physical exercise, a person becomes indolent, morose and sickly, or even seriously ill. To avoid such conditions of the body, and to enjoy a life that is free from all care, and full of good and wholesome fun and exercise, as walking, swimming, boating, etc., people go camping. The girls of whom I am about to write undoubtedly knew the purpose of their stay at camp, for there was not a day during two full weeks that they did not swim, or ramble, or row, or sit about a bonfire, roasting marshmallows and telling stories. And they enjoyed it immensely.

"The camp was located about a mile and a half from one of Wisconsin's most beautiful cities, on the banks of the Mississippi, just where that stream is divided into East and West channel. We slept in a houseboat. The roof of our nightly lodging place was flat and covered with tin, and had a railing and seats around the edges of it like the deck of a steamer. The only way to get into the boat was to 'walk the plank,' which we soon learned to do.

"Behind the cottage were some of those beautiful bluffs that we find along the banks of the Father of Waters in southern Wisconsin and Minnesota. And at the foot of these hills passed the road that led to La Crescent, a little town from which we received ice, milk, coffee and a few other supplies. Besides these a launch brought water, meat, fruit and other things from the city every morning and evening. This gave those girls who had work during the day an opportunity to come out to camp in the evening and return to work in the morning.

"Bertha was our cook, and Florence assisted her. At 6:30 they would ring the rising bell. But oh, how we did hate to hear it! It was not unusual that we, who did not have to leave at 7:30, would turn to the other side and doze off again until—yes, until the breakfast bell would ring. Then Emma would call Jennie, or Celeste would throw a pillow at her, or tug at her covers, or throw water into her face, and soon everyone would be up, dressing hurriedly in their bloomers and middie blouses, buttoning three buttons out of fourteen on their boots, gawling about one minute to dressing their hair, and then rush off from the boat down to the pump near the shore. Those who had had no chance at the wash basin would take their tooth brushes, soap and towel with them, and, after having taken their cold shower, would rush to the cottage for breakfast. Before breakfast was over with the Riverside usually appeared and was hailed by the girls. Two or three of them, and at times four or five would leave us for the day to return in the evening.

"The evenings were most enjoyable. The greatest attraction was always a large bonfire, which was built about eighteen or twenty feet from the cottage. About this the girls would gather to toast marshmallows, sing familiar songs, tell ghost stories and even dance the Indian war dance, whooping and yelling, to the best of their ability, like the red-skinned natives.

"At other times the program for the evening would be a more quiet one. While all the rest were comfortably resting in chairs and on the cots, the champion violinist—there was only one—would lie on the table, move the lamp close to her head, ask Florence to hold the music for her, and then play familiar tunes like Dixie, or Juanita, or Old Black Joe, or That Mendelssohn Tune. If this performance wasn't long enough, or interesting enough, someone would start the phonograph on which we usually played about four different selections and these would be announced each time. Such were the programs of rainy evenings, when everyone retired early. The procession to the houseboat then moved forward, the leader carrying a lantern. This light, however, did not shine very far, and those in the rear were led by the rippling of the water as well as by the rays of the light.

"Upon arriving at our 'apartments' we seldom spent much time in retiring, for the last one had to blow out the light and hook the doors, and none was very anxious to do that. Then, as a rule, everything was rather

PICK THIRD HUSBAND FOR LADY CHURCHILL

It is positively asserted that an old admirer who wanted to marry her before her unfortunate venture with George Cornwallis West has once more laid his heart and fortune, both of large size, at her feet.

er quiet, especially when we had visitors.

"The days were spent in walking, playing quarts or baseball, swimming, reading, embroidering, and the like.

"In this manner five of us girls spent two weeks at camp, closing our visit with a grand Fourth of July. On that day there were thirty-six girls at Riverside (which was also the name of the camp), and each one did her share in devising some mischief and enjoyment for the day.

"The morning was spent in receiving those who came to stay for the day, and in making plans for the afternoon and evening. The main feature of the afternoon was an exciting ball game. The call for supper, which followed soon after the close of the game, was welcome.

"The evening of that day was the most interesting one and the most exciting. A large bonfire near the shore of the river attracted most of the people from the cottages round about. In the earlier part of the evening the girls had scattered all along the hillside to watch the fireworks that were performed at North La Crosse, which is on the opposite shore of the Mississippi. When these had ceased, the camp girls made ready for their display. Amanda, Marie and Hazel had brought a great supply of firecrackers, skyrockets, Roman candles, sparklers, chasers, balloons, etc. These were shot from the roof of the houseboat, amidst screaming and laughing of the girls, and applause of the spectators. It was almost 11 o'clock and we all retired. Although most of the visitors had gone home on the Riverside, there were enough remaining to fill both the cottage and the houseboat to their utmost capacity. Poor Marie, who was a nurse by profession, and said that she was not used to sleeping in feathers, was placed on a table as one of the cots had been broken a few days before. But she did not mind it, and only made us wait for breakfast in the morning because she slept on our breakfast table.

"During that night a violent storm raged. There were eleven or twelve of us in the boat, and all the windows were open wide with the cots placed beneath them. This would have given the wind a chance to take off our roof, or at least to sail us down the stream, had not Miss C. heard the wind in the distance. Jumping up she quickly closed all the windows, walking over the cots and the occupants, in spite of their yells and strenuous objections. We were now all aroused and decided to light the lamp and remain awake until the storm and the waves had quieted down somewhat. Upon retiring again we slept soundly and were given a half hour longer in the morning, which we appreciated very much.

"The Riverside came at 10 o'clock that morning instead of 8. This launch, like many others, had been torn from its anchor and washed a quarter of a mile up the stream. Upon hearing what difficulty our captain had in getting his boat into shape we said nothing about his tardiness, but climbed into the launch and rode home, feeling that we had spent a most delightful two weeks at Riverside Camp."

LOCAL MAN MAKES NEW TYPE MIXER

Henry D. T. Wege of Barre Mills Invents a New Machine for Concrete

Mr. Henry D. T. Wege of Barre Mills who has been in the concrete business for many years has invented a new concrete mixer which has already proven itself to be a wonderful success. The machine is entirely different from anything on the market and for speed, durability, and economy in labor it has no equal.

Every mixer used by Mr. Wege during the time he was in the concrete business were of his own design and make and whenever advantages and improvements were discovered they were added to his machine. The result is a concrete mixer which is in a class by itself and has no equal.

Mr. Wege has been offered a good price for his invention by an outside firm but would not accept the offer unless the machine would be manufactured in La Crosse and as this could not be agreed upon the offer was rejected.

Mr. Wege then took the matter up with his brother Ernest Wege who is a pioneer of exceptional experience in the manufacture of concrete machinery. A new company was organized to manufacture the new machine and agreements made with Henry Wege whereby he will receive a royalty on every machine sold.

The new firm will be known as the Wege Concrete Machinery Co. A modern factory will be equipped at once in their own building at 118 S. Second street, to supply the increasing demand for these new machines. A number of the machines are already in operation and have proven to be absolutely satisfactory in every way.

The new machine will be known as the "New Way Concrete Mixer."

LEGOMOBILE SMASHED WHEN ROETHE RIDES

MADISON, Wis., June 19.—"If I had stuck to my legomobile instead of riding with a farmer, I would not be laid up today," said Henry E. Roethe of Fennimore, walking candidate for governor, as he limped into a news office here late Thursday. Roethe came into town to hunt up a tailor. His trousers displayed a bad rent at the knee and his coat was spattered with mud. A contusion below the right knee and a lacerated elbow, together with a strained hip, constituted the sum total of his injuries.

"I am looking for a doctor and a tailor," said the candidate. "My clothes are torn and I feel badly bunged up. I consider my escape nothing less than miraculous."

Roethe, after speaking at Poyette Thursday morning, went on to Morrisonville. Meeting Robert McDowell, a farmer, he accepted an invitation to ride in his rig. McDowell was just breaking in a green colt, never driven before. The colt shied at a well driller's outfit, became excited over a threshing engine, became uncontrollable, and ran away. Both occupants were thrown out, and the gubernatorial candidate was stunned from the shock with terra firma. The rig was smashed beyond repair.

SULPHUR DRIES UP ECZEMA AND STOPS ITCHING

This old time skin healer is used just like any cold cream.

With the first application of bold-sulphur cream the angry itching attending any eczema eruption ceases, and its remarkable healing powers begin. Sulphur, says a renowned dermatologist, just common bold-sulphur, made into a thick cream will soothe and heal the skin when irritated and broken out with Eczema or any form of eruption. The moment it is applied all itching ceases and after two or three applications the Eczema disappears, leaving the skin clear and smooth.

He tells Eczema sufferers to get from any good pharmacy an ounce of bold-sulphur cream and apply it to the irritated, inflamed skin, the same as you would any cold cream.

For many years this soothing, healing sulphur has occupied a secure position in the treatment of cutaneous affections by reason of its parasite-destroying property. It is not only parasiticidal, but also antipruritic, antiseptic and remarkably healing in all irritable and inflammatory conditions of the skin. While not always establishing a permanent cure it never fails to instantly subdue the irritation and heal the Eczema right up and it is often years later before any eruption again appears on the skin.

JUSTICE MARSHALL HITS EUGENIC LAW

Files His Dissenting Opinion Saying Law Reflects on All Candidates for Marriage

MADISON, Wis., June 19.—The eugenics marriage law was characterized today as an act which "unduly casts suspicion of immorality and criminality of most serious nature upon every male candidate, present, prospective or possible, for the marriage state," by Justice R. D. Marshall of the supreme court in a dissenting opinion. The majority of the court sustained the validity of the law in an opinion by Chief Justice Winslow last Wednesday. Justices Timin and Barnes filed concurring opinions and Justice Vinje concurs with the dissenting opinion of Justice Marshall. Justice Marshall gives nine specific reasons why he cannot agree with the majority opinion of the court declaring that it was the duty of the court "to condemn the act in question as subversive of constitutional liberty and right."

In his opinion the justice says: "The law imposes such an oppressive burden upon all such candidates as to prove incompetency to enjoy the natural right of marriage, or so take such right away without justification in many cases, and restrains its exercise generally, as to efficiently discourage an institution which is absolutely essential to public welfare, and so recognized and protected by the fundamental law. By so oppressively interfering with the constitutional right of marriage as to partially or wholly destroy that right, the tendency will inevitably be to promote immorality and social and racial retrogression. The penal feature is so severe as to destroy freedom of appeal to the law of the land for redress. To so read the law as to take from it any of these infirmities is to go outside the judicial field and make a law."

Importance of Law

"I think I as fully appreciate as anyone the importance of social purity and the protection of the newly elected mothers of the races to come from contamination and suffering; but there is reason in all things, and there is a realm beyond, and between the two stands the constitution. Removal of all responsibility for self care would eventually result in a weak and degenerate race. Undue regulation of the ordinary affairs and rights tends to produce the very condition they are aimed to prevent, or something worse, and are self destructive where not unconstitutional. "I have aimed to state my views of the legislation in question in its constitutional aspects, with a minimum of discussion of the enactment in detail, preferring to formulate, concisely, elementary principles, associated with a few observations appropriate to the situation, and trust the reader to apply them to the act and the court's opinion as they will be found in the report of this case. If those principles, briefly illustrated, without the aid of judicial decisions, do not efficiently indict and condemn the enactment, they will show much clearer the grounds for my opinion than lengthy discussion would, and will be more likely to be helpful in respect to future legislative efforts."

TELLS WOMEN THEY SHOULD HAVE VOTE

TELLS MOVEMENT'S HISTORY

Creates Merriment by Recitation of King's Order that Women Should Not Gather to Babble

MADISON, Wis., June 19.—"The men of Wisconsin may have been ungallant in refusing to women the right to vote, but it can hardly be said that they have been so in the matter of holding and controlling property, the doing of business, and the power of making contracts."

This was the concluding remark made by Chief Justice J. B. Winslow of the supreme court today in an address at the Madison Free Library before the State Suffrage School, on the subject of the "Property Rights of Women."

In his opening statement the chief justice created much merriment by referring to a statute promulgated by Henry VIII of England in 1547 "that women should not meet together to babble and talk and that all men should keep their wives in their houses." He said he did not know how successfully the drastic statute had been enforced, and added "one finds it difficult to suppose that the babbling entirely ceased."

Justice Winslow then reviewed the reforms that had since been secured the development of the property laws of Wisconsin as affecting the rights of women, discussing the constitutional provisions of the first law to be enacted on the property rights of women, which was approved by Governor Farwell, Feb. 1, 1850. This statute provided that the real estate and the income therefrom of any woman already married should be her sole and separate property and should not be subject to the disposal of her husband, that the property she owned before marriage she might retain and that gifts of property to her she could hold and will away and it shall not be liable for her husband's disposal or his debts.

Act Seemed Radical
"This act seemed radical in those days," said Justice Winslow. "When it came before the supreme court for construction in 1853 Justice Crawford said of it that it certainly goes far towards clothing one class of females with strange and manly attributes, yet it is a meritorious statute, designed to remedy a supposed evil of the common law, and therefore it ought to be liberally construed." The good judge's cautious reference to the "supposed evil" of the common law which act was designed to remedy is quite delicious. "It will be noticed that this act authorizes a married woman to receive property from any person other than her husband, and the claim was at once made that she was still incapacitated from dealing with her husband or receiving the title to property from him, even in payment of a debt which he might owe her. This idea was, however, rejected by the supreme court in an early case. This liberal construction of the statute placed married women so far as their separate property and its management was concerned on entire equality with men even at this early day in the history of the state."

Traced Interpretation

Judge Winslow then traced the interpretation made by the Wisconsin supreme court of this statute during the early history of the state showing how the rights of women were greater and greater consideration. He then discussed at some length a law passed in 1859 which struck out the provision of the law of wills, which required the husband's written consent to the wife's will, "and thus placed her on exact equality so far as testamentary capacity was concerned." In 1864 the legislature further enlarged the homestead right by providing that "in case the husband owning a homestead die without will, leaving a widow and no children, the homestead descends to the widow absolutely; if there are children she takes the use of it during her widowhood." He developed at some length in his argument the legislation and court decisions that ultimately proved a "body blow" at the ancient theory that the husband and wife are one and that the husband was that one.

Relic Removed

He said that in 1895 another relic of the common law was removed when a law was enacted providing that any conveyance, transfer or lien executed by either husband or wife to or in favor of the other should be void to the same extent as between other persons. By a law passed a few years later, he said, all transfers of real estate made by the husband direct to his wife before the passage of the law of 1895 was validated.

Judge Winslow recited the history of the refusal of Miss Lavina Goodell of Janesville to be received by the supreme court, and pointed out that in 1887 the legislature recognized her claim to admission.

DEMANDS RECEIVER FOR LORIMER BANK

Illinois Attorney General Charges that Officials Diverted Deposits to Speculation

SAYS LISTED ASSETS ARE POOR

Collateral Is Securities of Doubtful Value or Worthless, He Alleges

CHICAGO, June 19.—Attorney General Lucey today made formal application for the appointment of a receiver for the La Salle Street Trust and Savings bank, the largest of the Lorimer banks closed last week, on behalf of the state of Illinois.

Lucey charged that bank officials have appropriated depositors' money to speculative and personal uses, outside their powers, and that as a result the bank is now insolvent. He made no allegations of criminal wrongdoing, but asked that the receiver be given full power to carry on an investigation and to liquidate the remaining assets.

Depositor Is First.
Judges Winde and O'Connor will hear arguments tomorrow by attorneys for Tessler, L. Tarjan, who filed a petition for a receiver yesterday. He claims that his application should be acted upon first.

Tarjan is receiver for the defunct Realty Realization company, whose funds were on deposit in the Lorimer bank. Attorney General Lucey argued today that a state law provides that application for a receiver on behalf of the state takes priority over applications by individuals. Tarjan's attorneys say the law quoted is unconstitutional.

The attorney general today prepared lists of officers and stockholders of the Lorimer bank, preparatory to bringing suit to enforce the stockholders' double liability law of Illinois.

Securities Worthless.
In his petition for a receiver, the attorney general alleged that a large share of the collateral assets listed by the bank as worth $3,191,107, are in reality securities of doubtful value or absolutely worthless. He divided the collateral held by the bank as follows:

"Good loans, $750,355; securities of doubtful value, $763,687; securities of practically no value whatever, $1,746,008."

The bill recited the fact that large sums of money were loaned to William Lorimer, to William Lorimer, Jr., and Company, to Lorimer and Gallagher and Company, and to J. P. Gallagher on security including bonds of the Southern Traction company, which the attorney general holds are worthless.

DUKE PAYS HIS RENT

LONDON, June 19.—Today being the anniversary of the battle of Waterloo it was rent day for the Duke of Wellington, but his grace did not have to dive into his pocket very deeply, and it was with an air of unconcern that he drove over to Windsor Castle to present King George with the little silken flag on a silver staff which covers the rent of his big Stratfield Saye estate for the ensuing year. The estate was presented by the nation to the victor of Waterloo and cost originally $1,315,000, and under the act of parliament every duke of Wellington is required to present a replica of one of the French standards captured by his famous ancestor on the anniversary of the battle. Failing the payment of this "possession rent" the estate reverts back to the crown, but as the flag costs only about twenty dollars there is no record of any holder of the title losing sleep over his liability or being late in payment.

NO ACTION TAKEN FOR SEA SAFETY

Nation Has Not Yet Profited by Lessons of the Titanic and Volturno

WASHINGTON, June 19.—Admission that not one single effective measure has actually been accomplished to ensure the safety of life at sea since the Titanic sank two years ago, was made here today by Senator Smith of Michigan, chairman of the Titanic investigating committee of the senate.

Remedial legislation introduced while the country shivered from that disaster is still pending in senate. In the house, according to Representative Alexander of Missouri, all action has stopped on proposed laws respecting lifeboats, wireless signals and navigation which were proposed after the Volturno burned at sea.

Much to the disappointment of Smith, Alexander and Representative Hardy of Texas, senior democratic member of the house merchant marine committee of the legislation pending, very little refers to the construction of the ships' hulls, which all admit is the crux of the safety at sea question.

Stringent regulations respecting the building of ship hulls, Senator Smith asserted, will not be possible for years to come, because of the influence of the shipping industries in English public affairs. And no such action can be taken by this country, he added, because of existing treaties, until England is ready to co-operate.

GRILL ATTORNEY FOR NICARAGUA

WASHINGTON, June 19.—"What will Nicaragua do with that $3,000,000 after it gets it?"

This was what members of the senate foreign relations committee wanted to know today from Judge Charles A. Douglas, attorney for Nicaragua, in the secret committee discussion of the Nicaraguan treaty, granting that sum.

Judge Douglas intimated to a friend that members of the committee had "torn the clothes off him."

Grilling questions on conditions in Nicaragua and whether the United Fruit company controlled the government of Nicaragua were put to the judge.

The Treatment of Influenza or La Grippe

It is quite refreshing these days to read of a clearly defined treatment for influenza or La Grippe. In an article in the "Lancet-Clinic," Dr. James Bell, of New York City, says he is convinced that too much medication is both unnecessary and injurious. When called to a case of la grippe, the patient is usually seen when the fever is present, as the chill which occasionally ushers in the disease, has generally passed away. Dr. Bell then orders that the bowels be opened freely with salts, "Actoids" or citrate of magnesia. For the high fever severe headache, pain and general soreness one Anti-Kamnia Tablet every three hours is quickly followed by complete relief. Ask for A-K Tablets. They are also unexcelled for headache, neuralgia and all pains. P. S. A-K Salve for skin troubles.

JOHNSON-MORAN FIGHT INTERESTS

"Lil" Artha Full of Confidence; Wary of Glee to Be Occasioned by Defeat

BY HAL SHERIDAN
(Written for the United Press.)
NEW YORK, June 19.—There'll be no peace or repose of mind for the landlubbers until the international yacht races are out of the way. The international polo melee is over. Talk of "crowding" one's opponent, "backhand" strokes and "riding down" the ball have given way before long winded arguments on the merits and demerits of top sails, spinnakers, "reeches," forestaysails and spunkers by the rocking chair squadrons which can be found decreasing the supply of cocktails, highballs and "1910 vintage" on the porches of any of the hundreds of yacht clubs that front the Atlantic from Maine to Florida.
It is especially along the Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York and New Jersey coast where the largest numbers gather daily, and especially during any of the trial races to witness the tests or sit about on the club porches and gossip. And, take it from one who knows, the gossip is not always about the sea. As an aside, speaking of gossip, no bunch of women ever did so much small-talking about their neighbors and supposed friends as did the little knots of rich old boys who sat on the porches of one of the exclusive clubs off which the Resolute and Vanitie had one of their trial races one day a few weeks back.

There is evidence on every side of the great season of "salt water activity" the Atlantic coast states ever have known. Just because everyone who considers himself anyone wants to witness the big races next fall, there isn't a yacht club in this section that has not a waiting list as long as your arm. The intense interest also can be seen in the orders for vessels of every description placed in ship and boat yards and on books of yacht brokers.
The yachting fever never was higher. According to the old guard, men who never would have learned the starboard from the port side of a ship if Secretary of the Navy Daniels hadn't ordered them to be called right and left respectively, are buying boats on which to take parties off Sandy Hook to see the American defender race Sir Thomas Lipton's challenger, Shamrock IV.

Moran-Johnson Scrap
One thing that appears to be as certain and inevitable as taxes and death is that the Jack Johnson-Frank Moran scrap in Paris one week from Saturday will be a real fight. There was talk of a frame up—certainly. There most always is just before a fight of this calibre. But the only frame-up, if any, will be double crossing that each fighter will try to put over on the other one.
Just put it down that Jack Johnson cares about as much for that championship title as he does for both his eyes and his two legs. His pride in the title is exactly like the pride of the average down south dandy of his glaring lodge regalia on parade.

Jack Johnson, with a superabundance of confidence and conceit, will tote into that fight on June 27, everything he has in the way of defense and punch. Johnson knows the jeers and howls of delight that would arise from some $50,000,000 American throats would Moran slip over a sleep-producer.

Johnson also knows and realizes that if he goes in and fights like the Big Black that humbled Jeffries at Reno, and wins, he will have it said of him in spite of his disgusting morality, or rather lack of it, that he is a grand fighter. For that much of his make-up fight lovers will hold admiration. Once more take the tip that Jack Johnson will fight with all that's in him.

debauches, remains for Frank Moran to discover. Moran is far above the average fighter in intelligence and intellect. Better, he is a pretty good two-fisted fighting man. But Moran's intelligence and superior intellect has made him map out a course, and carry it through to the best of his ability.

Moran has no idea that he will have it easy for a minute. He believes, on the other hand, and many others hold the same theory, that Jack Johnson will furnish Moran with a lot of trouble in the first half of the battle.

Moran wants only to last that long. After that, he says, he expects Johnson's condition to begin to show and to furnish the chance for him to bring the crown back to America on a white man's head.

Chicago Goes Into Lead in Outlaw League by Win Over Pitt; Giants Lose to Phils

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Detroit, 4; Washington, 2

DETROIT, June 19.—The Detroit Tigers defeated Walter Johnson Thursday, 4 to 2, in the opening game of the series with Washington. Johnson worked at a disadvantage in the rain which began at the opening of the fourth inning and continued the balance of the game. The slippery ball seemed to bother him more than it did Dubeck for Detroit.

On more than one occasion Washington outfielders slipped while attempting to cut off Detroit drives and on a dry field Kavanaugh's home run might have been held to a single. This was the third consecutive defeat for Johnson. McBride drove in both of Washington's runs with a single in the seventh and a double in the ninth. Score: R H E Detroit . . . 000000101—4 6 1

Batteries: Johnson, Ainsmith and Williams; Dubeck and Stange.

Boston, 8; Chicago, 0
CHICAGO, Ill., June 19.—Boston batted Jim Scott's delivery all about the field on Thursday and shut out the locals by 8 to 0 in the first game of the series. Chicago hit Leonard hard enough, but could not hit opportunely. Score: R H E Boston . . . 000000001—8 14 1

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 19.—Although the world's champions fought hard they could not overcome a lead the home club secured in the early innings, and St. Louis won from Philadelphia 6 to 5 and went into third place in the race for the pennant. In several innings Philadelphia had men on second and third when none was out, but Baumgardner would tighten. Strunk knocked the ball into the right field bleachers for a home run with men on second and third. Score: R H E Philadelphia . . . 010000021—5 11 1

CONCILIATION BOARD SEEKS TO BRING PEACE TO W. VIRGINIA COAL REGIONS

The conciliation board, recently appointed by Secretary of Labor Wilson to investigate and endeavor to settle the differences between the striking coal miners of the Kanawha, West Virginia district, and the operators, is now meeting in Washington and hearing both sides of the question. The members of the board are A. L. Faulkner of Cleveland, an official of the department of labor, Charles W. Mills of Philadelphia, and P. Gilday of Clearfield, Pa. Thomas Haggerty and Thomas Cairns, officials of the United Mine Workers of America, are presenting the side of the miners.

The judge isn't the only person who complains that life is full of trials. A poor man may get more real pleasure out of an air castle than a rich man does out of the other kind.

WATCHING THE SCOREBOARD BY HAL SHERIDAN

Walter Johnson, once advertised for $100,000, was marked down another $10,000 today after the Tigers eased him his third successive defeat.

The Washington wonder has now lost more games than he lost all season in 1913.

By beating Brooklyn while the Pirates trounced the Giants, Cincinnati moved close to the National league pinnacle.

Third Baseman Stock of the McGraws, bounced out three doubles but his two fumbles in the eighth helped the Pirates to a late victory.

Ten men faced Jim Scott of the White Sox in the seventh; seven of them hit safely for a total of six runs, giving the Red Sox an easy win.

The world's champions bowed before the St. Louis Browns who went into third place.

Strunk, of the Macks, smashed out a home run with two on bases. After pounding out a homer and double off Cub twirlers, Beals Becker of the Phils, pulled a prize boner, stealing third with Oeschger on the bag.

Cards and Braves fussed for two hours and thirty-seven minutes, the Cardinals winning in the ninth after two were down.

By winning a ten-round battle with Pittsburgh, the Chiefs took the lead in the Federal race.

The Baltimore Feds went into third place, losing to Kansas City while the Indianapolis Feds took their ninth straight victory.

NO CHANGE IN VANITIE
NEW YORK, June 19.—Enthusiastic over the way Vanitie, the cup defence yacht handles, Owner Cockran, Designer Gardner and Skipper Haff agreed today that they will make no radical changes in her. They believed all she needs is a chance to try out her several suits of sails so that alterations may be made there-in as needed.

COLLEGIAN TO CUBS
PHILADELPHIA, Pa., June 19.—Shortstop Saunders of Holy Cross university, was to join the Cubs here today and get an immediate trial. Saunders is one of several collegians Cub scouts have rounded up for Manager O'Day.

It won't hurt you to about-face occasionally. Nobody is right all the time.

TROTTMAN HEADS STATE "U" REGENTS

MADISON, Wis., June 19.—At the meeting of the regents of the University of Wisconsin today all officers were elected as follows: James F. Trottman of Milwaukee, president.

A. P. Nelson of Grantsburg, vice president.

H. C. Bumpus, business manager.

M. E. McCaffrey, secretary.

The board accepted the resignation of Dr. M. P. Ravenel as director of the state hygienic laboratory and professor of bacteriology and appointed Dean C. R. Bardeen acting director of the laboratory. Dr. Ravenel has accepted an important post in the University of Missouri. The board also adopted rules for conducting the laboratory in co-operation with the state board of health.

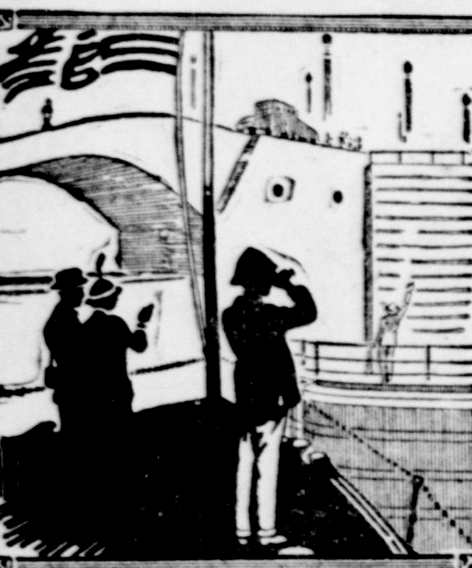

BICKERING HURTS BASEBALL

CHICAGO, June 19.—Bickering and litigation between organized baseball and the Federal moguls has caused the fans to lose interest and put a big dent in this year's gate receipts in the major leagues, President Comiskey of the White Sox, declared today.

"What is the use of trying to hide actual conditions?" said Comiskey. "The three major leagues will not make as much money this year as the two did last season. The minor leagues are affected, too. Contract jumping and litigation has resulted in a general demoralized condition of the players. The public is getting tired of this bickering and tired of seeing a star player playing with one club one day and another the next."

It was stated here today that Boston, Detroit, St. Louis and Chicago are the only American league clubs drawing normal crowds this season, and that Cincinnati and New York are the only National league clubs up to standard. Buffalo, Baltimore and Chicago are the best paying Federal league cities.

B+Y+Z+E=BYZE or BE WISE APPRECIATION

Have you ever broken your eyeglasses and had to wait several days while your doctor sent to Chicago for new lens?

Most of the people are having their lenses made in La Crosse. Some will have them made in Chicago at an increase in cost and loss of time. These same people if they lived in Chicago, would send to New York for their glasses.

We invite you to call and see your lenses made for your glasses, and let us explain how lenses are ground. Like one of our leading physicians you will say, "Glad to know optical work is so well done in La Crosse."

Accuracy is our "hobby." Every lens made here conforms exactly to the prescription. We insure this absolute accuracy by having our workshop on the premises where every detail is under my own supervision.

Any broken lens will be duplicated exactly, whether we originally fitted the glasses or not. The curve on the surface of the lens denotes its power, and we simply make a lens with the same curves on the surfaces.

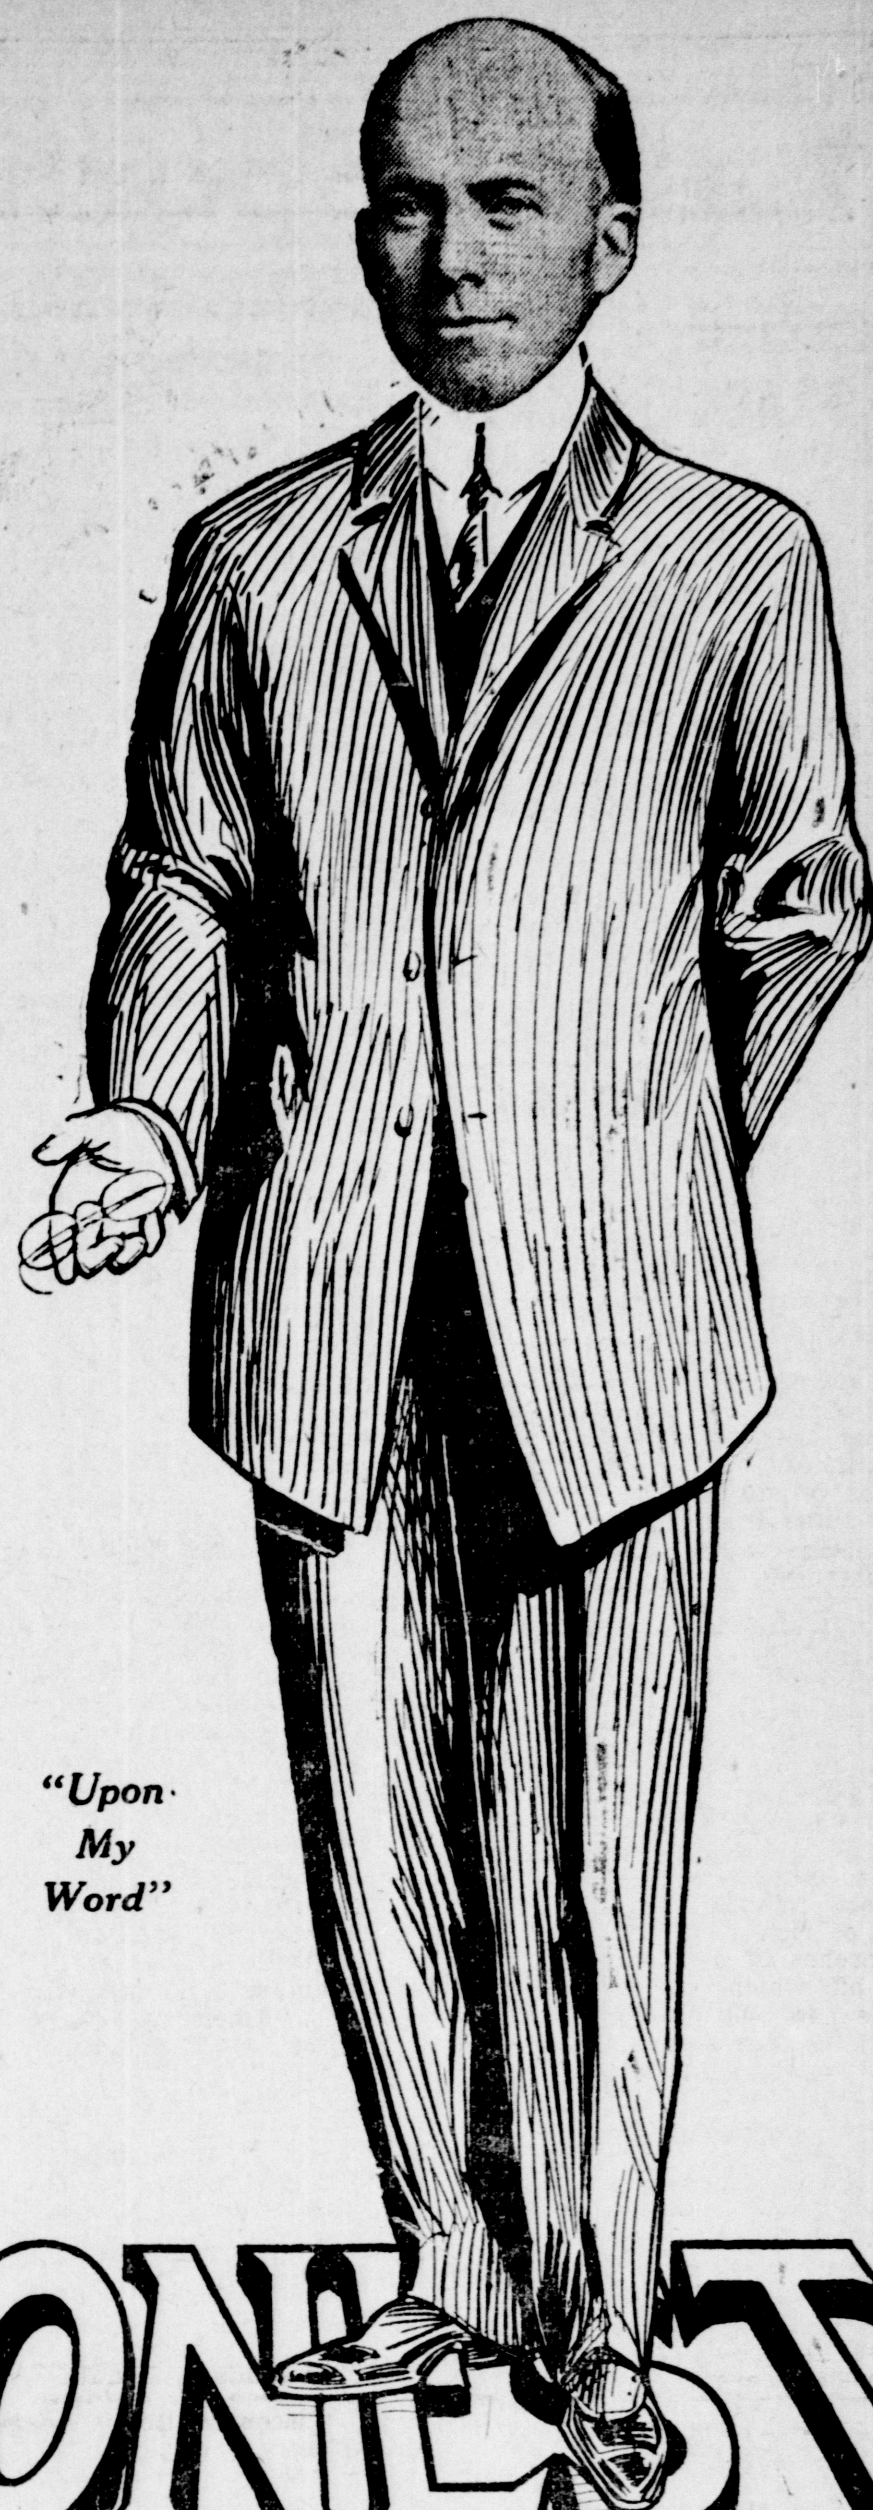

Our grinding machinery has a capacity to supply all the people of La Crosse with lenses, and we want to keep it going all day long.

WHAT WILL 20% SAVE YOU ON A DOLLAR?

"Then You'll Come To Me"

Headaches, so common to people with eyestrain find a true remedy in correctly fitted glasses. Much of the nervousness is caused by eyestrain, and other ills are relieved when all other remedies have failed. Optometry is not medicine nor has it anything to do with medical training. My work bears a guarantee of satisfaction or money back. Correctly fitted glasses are only a means of giving you a real service. If I fail to give you the service the glasses have no value. You not only feel better, you see better while wearing my glasses. Phone for appointment.

MISS WILSON FOR PEOPLE'S MACHINE

The President's Daughter Makes Statement Upon Arrival in Madison

MADISON, Wis., June 19.—Organization of "people's machines" to combat the old political machines, were advocated by Miss Margaret Wilson, daughter of the president, who arrived here today to attend the preliminary conference on civic secretaryship which will begin here tonight.

and demand their allegiance to the people," said Miss Wilson. In the party that arrived with Miss Wilson were Miss Zona Gale, the writer; Mrs. Maggie W. Barry, of Sherman, Tex.; Herbert Quick, noted author; Frank Parker Stockbridge of Chicago; Dean Walter T. Sumner of Chicago; John R. Richards, play superintendent in the south parks, Chicago; and Miss Genevieve Turner, social center worker.

HOLD ERRING HUBBIES

CHICAGO, June 19.—Two Newport, Ky., youths, who are alleged to have deserted their young wives for a taste of the white lights, were arrested by detectives today and are being held for the Newport police. They gave their names as Edward Megerle, 25, and Charles Danze, 21. Megerle confessed, according to the police, that after giving their wives $100 each and sending them on a vacation, he and Danze fled to Chicago with about $600.

ASQUITH AGREES TO MEET WOMAN

Premier Believed to Have Switched in Fear of Personal Violence

LONDON, June 19.—The suggestion that a sudden decision of Premier Asquith to receive a delegation of working women from the East End and discuss with them the suffrage question was influenced by threats of personal violence by the wild women was the theory most generally advanced here today. The anti-suffrage officials were astounded at the premier's inexplicable change of position, since he has repeatedly refused to receive the identical delegation which he announced late yesterday he would now see.

The premier's decision was announced after Miss Sylvia Pankhurst weak from her latest incarceration under the cat and mouse act, had been carried by her supporters to the house of commons, with the announced intention of continuing her hunger strike there.

How Asquith will receive the delegation is problematical. Only once so far have the suffragettes gone so far as to attack persons—an art gallery attendant being cut with a hatchet—but their uncompromising attitude makes the government fear such a campaign may be their next move.

EAST DISCREDITS CLAIMS OF WEST

NEW YORK, June 19.—"If there are any Whitneys and Waterburys and Milburns concealed in the polo clubs of the west, be sure that knowledge of their ability will be mighty welcome to poloists in the east," said W. A. Hazard, secretary of the Polo association here today, discussing a demand from the west that players of that region be considered next year in challenging Hurlingham for the Westchester cup.

Hazard was specifically discussing the suggestion of Z. T. Malaby of Pasadena, Cal., that the west organize an all-star club which would challenge the east to games at the San Francisco exposition, the winners of which would furnish a team to play in England next year. He explained his statement that the west "had not the class" by saying that such men as the "big four" were not there.

for us," said Hazard to the United Press, "that it will not be necessary to challenge us to appear in the San Francisco games. I personally know that eastern teams—probably the pick of the east—will be there. Then we shall see what the western men can do. If they have the goods that's what we want for an American team."

HILL CLIMB IS EVENTFUL MEET

UNIONTOWN, Pa., June 19.—Two dead, six suffering from injuries, some severe, and the national pike strewn with parts and wreckage of several automobiles today, is the result of the two day hill climbing contests under direction of the Automobile club of Fayette county. The dead:

J. E. Shafer of Pittsburgh, killed when his car crashed into a rock on a dangerous turn.

Dr. Joseph Van Kirk, 44, of Elizabeth, Pa., died from apoplexy in an exciting moment in one of the contests.

THEOLOGS HELP CHASE GANGMEN

NEW YORK, June 19.—Risking their lives under a rain of bullets, theological students of the General Theological Seminary early today gave chase to a group of "Gopher" gunmen. Jealousy in the ranks of the gang broke forth into open firing between two bands, in Chelsea square. Students watched the gangmen's war, and as the police appeared aided in the manhunt. A patrolman captured Tanner Smith, longshoreman, and reputed leader of one faction, but the others vanished.

Smith gave the police such a battle that they had to charter a street car to drag him away. He threatened to "get" the officer when he got out.

CONFESSES HIS CRIME

PEDDLER ADMITS HE ASSAULTED TWO LITTLE GIRLS AND CARVED ONE TO PIECES

PITTSBURGH, Pa., June 19.—With Jacob Taylor, 21, a peddler, in a cell and his signed confession in the possession of District Attorney R. H. Jackson, Allegheny county authorities today concluded their search for the murderer of little Florence Dove, and the assailant of Elizabeth Klimek, her playmate. The Dove child was assaulted and then carved to pieces with a knife on a hillside near her North Bradock home on May 4. The murderer then turned to the Klimek child, assaulted her, and was about to plunge the knife into her when she screamed and frightened Taylor away. Taylor talked freely of his crime and said it was done "on impulse," after he had played with the children for a half hour.

LIVING COST BIG ISSUE SAYS UTMAN

Producer Gets Little Declares Hudson gubernatorial Candidate in Campaign Statement

MADISON, WIS., June 19.—In a campaign statement issued here today, B. W. Utmann of Hudson, republican candidate for governor at the September primaries, declares that he is convinced that the gravest problem confronting the American people today is that of the increased cost of living. He says that the producer gets little of the high price for which the products of the farm sell in the market.

"The proposition before us as citizens of the state is to devise a practical method by which the producer and the consumer may be brought closer together," say Mr. Utmann. "The plan which I propose as an economic system of marketing, consists of the elimination of the middlemen and the gamblers in the food products between the warehouse man or shipper and the retail dealer. To do this it will be necessary to provide a market commission to locate all the surplus crops by the aid of government crop reports and through a system of correspondence with the retail dealers they will know where and when these products are required of the consumers."

"From time immemorial the producer instead of dealing directly with the retailer to the consumer has fallen into the hands of the middlemen and lost the results of his labor."

SHERIFF JAHR IS

JARRED WHEN HIS

PRISONER "DUCKS"

He didn't run away—he just walked.
Sheriff Carl Jahr, of Trempealeau county, is today searching for Edward Fuller, bound over to the circuit court for trial on a charge preferred against him by a young woman of Ettrick, Wis. Fuller left the sheriff while the two were strolling in the public square in Galesville, walked through a hardware store, and disappeared.

Fuller had reappeared in the county after a two year absence. Sheriff Jahr heard of his arrival, and arrested him on an old warrant. At a preliminary hearing in Galesville, Fuller was bound over to the circuit court.

After the hearing, the sheriff and his prisoner had some time to wait for a train to take them back to Whitehall, the county seat. According to the story told at Galesville today, they went for a stroll to kill time.

Advices from Ettrick this morning said that Fuller had been seen walking along a road near that place, the night of his escape, but that he has since disappeared again.

EXCLUSION BILL

UP NEXT MONTH

WASHINGTON, June 19.—The prospects for Hindu and Japanese exclusion legislation within the next month, announced today by Representative Baker, of California, were pregnant with more international entanglements.

Baker said the house immigration committee has "practically agreed" to report out his Japanese exclusion bill, with some minor amendments.

Indications that Japan will shortly renew negotiations regarding the California anti-Japanese land law, are a further complication in the plan for an early action in congress on the exclusion bills.

Value of Love.

A wife who practises what is commonly known among the fraternity of husbands as "hurt look," indicating that a tear shower is about ready to fall because her beloved has not acquiesced wholly to her desires and plans, the other morning said at the breakfast table after her husband had declined firmly but surely to buy an automobile of a certain type, "John, don't you love me any more?" "Uh-huh—I guess so; but not $3,000 worth."

Perhaps it is better to take things as they come than to take chances.

Grape-Nuts

Its delicate sweet, delicious flavour is particularly appealing during the hot months when the appetite lags.

Made of whole wheat and barley, Grape-Nuts contains the essential elements for re-building the body—especially brain and nerve centres.

Grape-Nuts is partially pre-digested—the starch cells broken down to aid quick, easy digestion. And you know one feels cooler and more comfortable in hot weather on easily digested food.

It's easy to serve Grape-Nuts. Just pour what is wanted direct from the package, add cream or milk and sugar.

GRAY HAIR DARK

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair

Don't bother to prepare the tonic. You can get from any drug store a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur." Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray, streaked and looks thin, wispy and scraggly, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's Sassafras and Sulphur" because it darkens the hair naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another day

GIRL DISAPPEARS

CHICAGO, June 19.—Detectives today began a search for pretty 17-year-old Marjorie Baldwin, daughter of Walter Baldwin, real estate broker, who left home Wednesday evening for a walk and has not returned.

Very True.

The Phrenologist—"Yes, sir, by feeling the bumps on your head I can tell you exactly what sort of a man you are." Mr. Dolan—"O! believe it wud give ye more av an idea wot sort av a whimmin we oldies."

Armstrong Lake.

Armstrong lake, within the Bear Tooth national forest, Montana, is said to rival the famed Lake Louise of the Canadian Rockies. It lies at an elevation of 7,000 feet, surrounded by towering mountains.

GIRL ELOPES BUT MOTHER CAN'T TELL WHICH SUITOR WON

CHICAGO, June 19.—Dorothy Lisbeth, 18, of Corliss, Wis., pretty heroine of a rain-pipe romance, was sought by the Chicago police today at the request of her mother, who hopes to prevent Dorothy's marriage to a suitor she doesn't know.

In the gray dawn today, the hired man at the Lisbeth home stood rubbing his eyes in amazement while a dapper young man caught a suit-case tossed out of Dorothy's window, slid down the rain-pipe and vaulted into an automobile. Dorothy has so many suitors Mrs. Lisbeth doesn't know whom to accuse.

Made the Queen Proud?

The Duke of Argyll, son-in-law of Queen Victoria, was the first nobleman in recent years to marry into the royal family. That was small claim to distinction in the eyes of his highland clansmen in comparison with the fact that he was a descendant of the great MacCallum More, the founder of Clan Campbell. Their feeling was aptly expressed by the London Punch, which thus recorded a conversation between a returned highland fisherman and a friend on shore:

When the Waiter Wins.

Two men were wrangling as to who should settle with the waiter for the luncheon. When the question had been finally decided and the contestants had gone the waiter said to one of his regular customers who was a witness of the scene: "That's what we like, for every time it happens we come in for an extra tip. The man who couldn't get the check has only one way to get even, and that is by giving the waiter something, and nine times out of ten he does it and makes the amount more than he would have given if he had paid the check. This one ordered extra cigars and left the change for me. We like the 'give me the check' quarrels."—New York Tribune.

Highest Form of Life.

In reply to a Spring Hill teacher's question, "What is the highest form of animal life?" one of the boys suggested, "the giraffe."—Kansas City Star.

11 a. m.—The market improved rapidly over its recent record, the change being manifest during the first half hour.

Noon.—Little was done during the second hour. The market merely awaited the promised announcement on the Rock Island reorganization.
